Introduction

With the ever-expanding system it has become necessary to split Evolution into two books. What you have here is the advanced classes book. It contains the famous “All” tables, as well as numerous advanced classes, including the old favourites of Devout Priest or Spiritual Healer, and some new classes such as Mana Vortex and Spiritual Exorcist. It is important to remember that when multi-classing a character retains the restrictions of their base class as well as gaining those of the class they are becoming.

Hopefully the classes included will allow people to shape a character in the way they desire, without feeling they need to have points requests to be on a level playing field.

This resistance is gained from a chronic childhood illness that leaves the character permanently and incurably down 4 life to the chest and 2 to all other body locations.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | 20   |
| ALL          | Sensitive Smell - Character gains the Discern Smell ability but takes double effect from olfactory attacks. This ability is lost if the character ever acquires Immunity to Olfactory Attacks.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | 20   |
| ALL          | Emotional Sensitive - Character may utilise a physical Psi-Scan 1/day (no casting damage applies). Ability is lost if the character becomes immune to emotional attacks, and the points spent on it are wasted.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 25   |
| ALL          | Trusty Old Weapon - The first non-“item” weapon (of type specified when ability bought) that the character begins the adventure with is immune to Shatter, Rust, Melt, Disintegrate, Warp, and similar as if supernatural until the end of the adventure. If this weapon is somehow destroyed or lost before the end of the adventure, the character gains zero achievement points for the mission (but gains a new weapon for the next adventure).                                                                                                                                                                                           | 25   |
| ALL          | Good Memory for Names - Character can remember any name they have been told perfectly, and may ask the referee to repeat any name from the adventure brief at any reasonable and relevant time! Does not apply to remembering anything but names.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | 30   |
| ALL          | Natural Athlete - As Salmon Leap 1/day.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | 30   |
| ALL          | Vigilante - Character gains Discern Outlaw at will and a 25% rage 1/day vs. outlaws only. Discern Outlaw will reveal the degree of outlawing (e.g. outlaw, ostracised, wolfshead.) If the character finds an outlaw, they must attempt to bring them in alive (or dead; but only if the outlaw attacks the character or his party) to the local legal authority to meet justice for their crimes. If they do not, they suffer a permanent irremovable curse of conscience (as curse in the handbook, but physical in origin which fades only when the character successfully brings in his next outlaw) and gain zero points for the mission. | 30   |
| ALL          | Enhanced Reflexes: Grants +1 (total) DAC.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | 35   |
| ALL          | Burst of Strength - 1/day for 5 minutes character gains +1 stackable Strength (max. +3!), but for 15 minutes afterwards is reduced to a maximum of +0 Strength.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 35   |

| ALL                       | Sensitive Hearing - Character gains the Acute Hearing ability but takes double effect from sonic attacks, and may never talk louder than a whisper (this will prevent the character from casting certain spells or miracles, such as Restore Life or Touch of Death, or use abilities such as Ki Shouts, War-Cries, etc). This ability is lost if the character ever acquires Immunity to Sonic Attacks. | 30   |
| ALL                       | Stubbornness - Character gains immunity to Listed Stopping Effects 1/day for 5 minutes but will never willingly retreat from a foe at any time, regardless of danger.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | 40   |
| ALL                       | Natural Climbing Skills - As Assisted Climb 1/day.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | 40   |
| ALL                       | Superstitious Nature - Character may not use any form of magic spell, innate ability or item, but may sense magic 20' radius at will (Yes/No answer, not locational) and gains +1 MAC. Character is feared for 5 minutes if directly attacked by visible magic, to which Immunity to Fear does not apply.                                                                                                | 40   |
| ALL                       | Lucky Idea - 1/day gains a minor informational insight into a single issue, physical in origin, with the exact information revealed completely at the discretion of the referee.                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | 50   |
| ALL                       | Psionic Retardation - Character gains Mind Block (as Monk), but may not buy any neuronics power, or even utilise neuronics from items.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | 50   |
| ALL                       | Toxin Resistance - Character's advanced immune system duplicates the effects of Ant Venom 6 in his system once each hour and character falls unconscious for 5 minutes rather than dying from death poison. Character takes ½ effect from all beneficial ingestive potions.                                                                                                                              | 50   |
| ALL                       | Ancient Blessing - Gains a Fortified Spirit and Immunity to Slayer and like abilities, but dies permanently if they do anything or convinces another to do anything that would permanently slay anyone, including raising as undead.                                                                                                                                                                     | 50   |
| ALL                       | Fated Hero - will succeed any TOD survival roll, if there is any chance at all of success (still costs res chance as normal). Restore Life type effects performed off dungeon cost 10% less (to a minimum of 10%)                                                                                                                                                                                        | 50   |
| ALL                       | Stockiness - Character gains Resistance to Sever/Location to Zero as per Table 3, but dies if any location is severed due to damage. Dwarves with this quirk are knocked unconscious by any location being reduced to 0 LOC or below.                                                                                                                                                                    | 60   |
| ALL                       | Bound to the City – The character is bound to the chosen city as one of their Kallah. They gain Kallah benefits as per Kallah beggar. However they may not belong to Social or Political guilds as their only loyalties are to the city                                                                                                                                                                  | 100  |
| All bar Ogre and Troll    | “Brute” - Character is very stupid (akin to ½ Ogre intelligence) and may not cast any form of supernatural effect, including spells, miracles, neuronics, earthpower or ki powers even from items. Character gains +1 stackable Strength (max. +2), +6/2 life and +1 innate PAC.                                                                                                                         | 50   |
| All bar Silverfolk        | Animal Friend - Character will not attack normal (not giant) animals save in purest self-defence, and will encourage others not to do so. No normal animal will attack the character save in self-defence.                                                                                                                                                                                               | 90   |
| All bar Imperial Yeomanry | Paranoia - Character is incurably insane, and gains Sixth Sense, Traitor's Shield and Discern Poison skill. Character may not join any guilds, and automatically leaves those he is currently in. Character will not willingly accept aid from anyone, trusting only themselves and their divine patron, if they have one.                                                                               | 20   |
| All bar Imperial Yeomanry | Megalomania - Character gains +2 resistance levels to Domination effects, but is incurably insane. Due to lack of grip upon reality, character may not join any political guild, and automatically leaves any he is currently in                                                                                                                                                                         | 30   |

Multi-Classing Rules

To multiclass you must be at least 450 points past 8th level. You may only take additional multi-classes at a rate of 1 per 1000 points past this threshold you have reached.

0-449 pts = 0 multi-class slots available
450-1449 = 1 multi-class slot available
1450-2449 = 2 multi-class slots available, etc

You may only multi-class as your original class, not as a class which you buy as. This does mean that a non-standard character, such as a rebirth which is a non-standard class, cannot buy any of these multi-class options without having first checked with the GSM for appropriateness. When pathing (see later) the cost of the class being pathed to is based on a character's primary class not a secondary class.

On beginning a multi-class, you gain all abilities appropriate to a character of that class, to the level you have reached; for example, a Warrior who has multi-classed to 3rd level Wizard will gain 12 mana, and so on. All abilities of both classes are gained, and also all disabilities - for example a Warrior who has multi-classed Wizard cannot carry more than 2 daggers' worth of non-magical metal, and a Warrior who has multi-classed Warrior-Priest cannot use sharp weapons. A Wizard who had multi-classed Warrior could use any weapon a Warrior can use, as long as they did not break Wizardly restrictions (such as metal allowance). If a class specifically states that it may not use a shield, this is a disability of the class.

Once 6th level in a class is reached, the character may buy 8th level abilities available only to that class - so that a Warrior multi-classed to 6th level Wizard could begin researching new glyphs, buying additional mana and casting levels, and so on. As mentioned above, all multi-classes are based on your original class, not any additional classes you may have acquired - a Warrior who has multi-classed Warrior-Priest and then wishes to multi-class Spirit Warrior must pay the cost from Warrior, not from Warrior-Priest. Further, simply because you have the ability to buy as Warrior does not allow you to multi-class as Warrior.

Characters may not usually be in more than two class brackets. The brackets are; warrior, priest, scout, wizard, druid and neuronicist. So if you are in the warrior bracket and take a multi-class which is in the druid bracket you cannot then take a class that is within the scout bracket since this would place the character in three different brackets. If your starting class counts as being in two brackets (e.g. warlock is in the warrior and wizard brackets) then you cannot select multi-classes that count as outside these two brackets. The exception to this is pathing which is explained in detail later. In short though if one of your classes has the option to 'Path' then you may use your pathing slot (each character only gets one) to enter the wizard bracket (if you are in the priest bracket currently) or to enter the priest bracket if you currently count as being in the wizard bracket. The specifics of this are explained in the next chapter.

You may not begin a multi-class or Path if you are currently partway through (i.e. below 6th) in another class or Path. Taking a Multi-Class or Path to 7th and 8th level uses up a second Multi-class slot. If you have bought 7th level in a multi-class or Path you need to purchase 8th before you can start another multi-class or Path. It is possible to take one multi-class and one Path to 7th and 8th level in total.

It is not possible to standardly multi-class to a class not normally available to your race; for example, Goblins may not choose to multi-class Unholy Champion, even though Warriors may normally do so.

Standard Classes

Standard classes are considered to be those which are available to be played from 1st level, rather than merely as multi-class options. A Sorcerer is a standard class for example, while a Thaumaturge is not.

Notes

Extra levels of life can only ever be purchased from a class which is not solely in the Warrior bracket, - so a Warrior-Priest gone Warrior who buys levels of life gains them only at 2/1, not at 6/2. This is a universal rule. If a character who can buy extra levels of life multi-races and gains a higher base life, their extra levels of life may be as their multi-race. However, extra levels of life may never be more than 5/2 - even if your normal levels of life are greater than this.

Power-points from a second standard class do not 'stack' together; for example, a Wizard multi-classing to Warlock gains no additional mana. Instead, whichever mana total is higher is used - so if a Warlock multi-classed to 6th level wizard they would have 42 mana rather than 36. This applies equally to spirits and to earthpower.

Throughout this book, additional uses of 'per day' innates may be bought at the cost listed as the first number in the brackets after the description of the ability, to a maximum number of times equal to the second number in the brackets. It is only possible to acquire these additional innates once the class or race is completed, unless specifically noted otherwise.

It will be noted that in some cases the cost of a multi-class remains the same for different races who may get varying benefit from it. For example, a faerie pathfinder multi-classing warrior gets far less life than a human. This is deliberate, and indicates the fact that faeries do not make good warriors! The same principle applies in other similar cases.

Specific class notes:

Although it is not generally possible to follow a multi-class to a class unavailable to your race, there are a few specific exceptions:

- Ggrutuck, Orcs, Ogres and Trolls may all multi-class Thug or Berserker, exactly as human warrior.
- Goblins, Drow, Elves and any form of Half-Elf may multi-class assassin, for the standard listed cost. Assassins must be Evil however, so only evil characters may take this option.
- Blauz, Half Elves and Elves may multi-class Warlock at normal cost, of appropriate colour only.
- Any tribal warrior may multi-class Spirit Warrior with the permission of their own tribe's shaman (if they have no shaman, they may not so multiclass). Goblins get life as human battle-priest by level.
- Ancientfolk and Silverfolk may multiclass Archer, Warlock, or Assassin as per humans of the same class.
- The Shaman and Witch-Doctor classes may only be taken by a tribal character who is in a tribe which has no current Shaman or Witch-Doctor as appropriate. Shamans and Witch-Doctors may multi-class as pure priests/wizards do, except where their race or tribal nature precludes them from doing so.
- The abbreviation VWE: indicates a 'Very Well Equipped' multi-class of the appropriate type.
- The Baronial classes, Valdstayn/Vochstelen/Artificer/Rofvugr, can only be taken by a character who could have begun as that class; i.e. a Baronies Human, a Ggrutuck, or a Duidoin, as appropriate. This is also true for other similar race-specific classes, including Sorcerer, Slayer, Silverfolk Psyker, Awakener, and similar.
- When multi-classing to a class below that grants power or innates the innates are chosen at the start of each day and may be of any relevant miracle/spell the character can cast within the appropriate restrictions (e.g. healing only for Spiritual Healer).

Where a multi-class is available in more than one way to a character (for example, Scholar multi-class could be bought under 'Any' or under 'Wizard' by a wizard), they may choose to buy the cheaper option as desired (so that a Wizard would probably choose to multi-class Scholar at the 'Wizard' cost rather than the 'Any' cost). If a character's base class gives them a restriction on manufacturing, such as a Thug's limitation of 'May never make potions', they keep this restriction even after multi-classing to a class without the restriction. However, if a character without that restriction multi-classes they do not acquire it – for example a Pathfinder who multi-classes Thug may retain their making capabilities.

Going to 8th Level

As noted elsewhere a character can only take a single class and a single "Path" to 8th level. This can be a standard (such as Warrior or Wizard) class or an advance class (such as Arch-Mage or Battlemaster). For advanced classes these are individually designed by the player for each character via the points request system. For standard classes however they are published. The costs of 7/8th are listed on the tables at the end of this book. The abilities gained are as per the standard class.

When 8th level is reached the character can buy a limited number of abilities that are normally only available to 1st class characters. Effectively going to 8th level in a class allows the character to buy one ability as if first class upon reaching table 9, a second on table 10, third on table 11, and finally a 4th on table 12. They may choose for one of these abilities to be a multi-class (for example a Warrior multi-classing to 8th level Wizard could choose to use one of his 1st class "Slots" to multi-class Arch-Mage at the Wizard's cost). If an ability can be purchased multiple times (e.g. Noble Staminas) then multiple purchases only take one "Slot".

Pathing to 8th functions in the same way as multi-classing, but it retains the limitations of colours of magical abilities/alignments of spirits so the options opened may be more limited.

Pathing and Multi-Classing between Priest and Wizard

As the system has developed people have expanded on pathing, and indeed multi-classing between the priest and wizard brackets. The result is a far more open system that allows for more character diversity. Rather than this remaining the realm of yellow paper, the options below have been outlined.

The first main change is that it's now possible to Multi-Class to Wizard as a Priest and vice versa. The cost is the same as for pathing. This means the individual has multi-classed out of their original bracket rather than pathing. They do not lose access to Neutral Miracles, Grey Spells etc. Their magic and spirit function separately. However they may now carry and use both types of items. This option does not grant any form of mantics.

The second change is that it is now possible to Path as a Priest or Wizard of any Alignment/Colour. The starting cost "Path" of 25 points on table 7 must be purchased, and then the cost of the class paid. Using this option the character has pathed. They have still left their bracket for relevant abilities, but are free to multi-class into a different bracket if desired. Characters that have pathed lose access to miracles not of their own (G/N/E) alignment, and only retain spells of their own colour.

Finally Paladins, Grey Knights, and Unholy Champions can no longer path from their base class. To do so they must first enter the Priest or Wizard Bracket.

In addition to the above change there are several changes to the effects of pathing: A pathed character gains the ability to cast both standard spells of their own colour(s), and standard miracles of their alignment that are on their list, mantically. They no longer need to purchase each spell or miracle separately. All priestly discerns owned become mantic.

As previously, pathed characters can only cast (using their own power) spells or miracles of their own colour/alignment. They are only able to use scrolls of their own colours/alignment, and the same for items. They may freely use guild benefits (not guild items) that are of different colours (not opposite) or alignment (again within normal rules), and the same applies to radiated benefits. Due to the changes in the rules regarding magic and spirit mixing, it is possible for them to benefit from spells/miracles cast by another of different colours/alignments without them interfering in their powers.

As before certain neutral miracles are also translated into a good/evil version for use by the pathing character. These are detailed below - no other neutral miracles change to good/evil versions.

| Talk To Spirits         | This can only be used in conjunction with another goodly miracle, such as a Dismiss Undead or a Restore Life. |

Evil Aligned Path Option:

|                                |                                                                                           |

| Control Undead          | Remains unchanged                                                                         |
| Halt                    | This only affects the goodly.                                                             |
| Stasis                  | This only affects the goodly.                                                             |
| Protection From Spirits | This can now only be cast against good spirits.                                           |
| Talk To Spirits         | This can only be used in conjunction with another evil miracle, such as a Control Undead. |
| Voice of Power          | This only affects the goodly.                                                             |

When creating a scroll or item of power for these pathed neutral miracles it needs to state on the description card that the effect is pathed good/evil version. E.g. Protection versus Evil Spirits (goodly path).

To be clear: It is possible for a second-class priest/wizard to path. However the costs for doing so are as per their first class. This will mean they cannot path to the 'Mancer options detailed later in this book.

Tribal Creatures Taking a Path/Multi-Class

A Witch Doctor or Shaman who elects to take a path (or to multi-class to Priest/Wizard) may do so, but does not gain wizard mana or priestly spirits. Instead, they gain appropriate power points for a Witch Doctor or Shaman of the path's multi-class level that they have attained. A pathed Shaman suffers the same restrictions to weapons as a Witch Doctor, along with the least favourable armour allowances. This is only permitted if the tribe has none of the character's counterpart - e.g. a shaman can only Path to witch doctor if the tribe has no witch doctor. Once this is done they are considered to be both shaman and witch doctor to the tribe.

Pathing from a Multi-Class

It is possible to path based on a multi-class. For example a Warrior that had multi-classed Warrior Priest could then path Wizard. To do so they must buy the ability to path as normal, then when "Pathing" they use the cost as per their first class, so in this case they would use the Warrior cost for Wizard.

Otherwise it functions exactly as normal.

Post 6th Level Options

Once 6th level has been attained in the path multi-class the pathed character can select abilities as both a Wizard and a Priest of the appropriate alignment. They may also purchase special abilities only available to pathed characters.

Additionally the rules on learning advance spells and miracles have changed. A pathed character (including via the 'Mancer classes) may purchase the following abilities:

Master of "Colour" ~ Purchased per colour owned. This allows the character to cast all published advanced spells owned of the chosen colour (which they must have) mantically. It may be purchased for as many colours as are owned. It costs 250 points per purchase.

Devotee of Power ~ Allows all published advanced miracles owned of the characters own alignment to be cast mantically. It costs 250 points.

Pathed characters are free to Second Colour to any appropriate colour (alignment wise) for 130 points on table 8.

Non-standard spells/miracles may also be learnt mantically, but each spell/miracle must be learnt individually and need GSM approval (signed on to the sheet). They cost 5 points per power point to learn.

It is also possible to learn to cast advanced miracles and spells mantically individually rather than buying the 'Master of Power' or 'Devotee of Power' abilities. Again this costs 5 points per power point to learn but obviously does not require GSM approval. You must already have the ability to cast the miracle or spell normally before you buy the ability to cast it mantically.

Casting Combined Magic / Spirit Miracles

A pathed character is able to cast a miracle which affects creatures equally both magically and spiritually. This means that a miracle would affect an Elf in the same manner that it would a Human.

The secondary power cost equals the cost to cast the miracle, so power reductions can be applied. Protection from Spirits for 0 spirits with certain conditions - in order to do this mantically the true cost must be matched i.e. 3 mana.

Some notes about specific miracles:

Casting a resurrection style ability on an Elven target requires the 'mantic miracle to be cast within 20' of the place where the Elf died, as its mystical life force rejoins the elements in that area. It doesn't matter if the remains have been brought out of the adventure, the Restore to Life must be cast in the location where the Elf died within the 20' limit.

After the two week time limit expires the Elf is deemed to have been subsumed by the elements in the area, and then the Restore to Life miracle will not work on the Elf.

Mantic undead cannot be dismissed without a mantic Dismiss Undead. Also, they can make use of Elemental Sight as well as Spirit Sight. Physical 'mantic undead can be affected by normal weapons, but incorporeal undead can only be affected by a mantic item, which has the capability of doing either magical or spiritual damage, although it does not matter which type of damage is actually done - as long as the weapon has the capability of doing both then it will affect the mantic incorporeal undead.

A mantic Spiritual Mastery, or similar mantic miracle, cannot be removed without a mantic Spiritual Freedom, or similar mantic miracle. Bless/Curse is no longer an exception to this.

Casting Combined Magic / Spirit Spells

Most of the notes for combined magic / spirit miracles also apply here, but in order to counteract the effects of a mantic version of a spell the opponent must use a mantic counter-agent. This means that a mantic Darkness spell could not be dispelled by a normal wizard, nor would a normal See Through Magical Darkness spell grant you sight in one. However, a mantic Light spell will negate it, and a mantic See Through Magical Darkness cast by a pathed Priest/Wizard will help.

The power points for casting a mantic spell are equal quantities of mana points and spirit points, equal to the number of mana points required to normally cast the non-mantic version of the spell (see above for examples).

And some notes for specific spells:

A mantic elemental may also use Spirit Sight, as well as Elemental Sight. As stated previously, as it was created by mantic means it cannot be dispelled, nor will it negate, nor be negated by, a non-mantic elemental.

Mantic Form

Should a creature be in a mantic form e.g. via casting a Goodly aligned Spiritual Form mantically, then they may only use mantic powers and attacks, and are only affected by such.

A creature that is solely mantic is not affected in any way by any non-mantic effects, this includes effects such as Protection from Spirits and Voice of Power.

Examples: A creature in a mantic form can be hurt by an elf with a mantic weapon, they cannot be hurt by a priest with a solely spiritual mace, or a wizard with a normal Disruption spell.

A creature in mantic form can affect a spiritual only creature but it could apply its best defences against the spiritual side of the attack with infinite defence against the magical side.

Mantic Spirit Invis

It is possible to cast mantic Spirit Invisibility, granting immunity to magic, spirit, and mantics for the duration. Elves and similar beings are unable to do so (if they somehow gain the ability) as it suppresses the spell that keeps them alive, killing them.

Resisting Mantics

When calculating the effect of a mantic power work out the effect suffered separately for each facet of power, and then you take the greater effect. This applies equally to resistance levels.

If you are completely immune to a power base then your resistance is deemed infinite against the effect.

A Priest with SAC 2 and MAC 1 versus a Mantic Lightbolt

Spiritual: 24/4 vs SAC 2 = 12/2

Magical: 24/4 vs MAC 1 = 18/3

Therefore the Priest takes 18/3 damage.

An Elf in MAC2 versus a Mantic Spirit Bolt

Spiritual: 18tblp vs infinite = 0

Magical: 18tblp vs MAC 2 = 16TBLP

Therefore the Elf takes 16 TBLP

Mantic Innates

It is possible for pathed characters to combine their mana with spiritual miracle innates exactly as if they were spirits to cast mantic miracles and to combine their spirits with magical spell innates exactly as if they were spirits to cast mantic spells. E.g. if the person wishes to cast a mantic Total Heal they can use an innate Total Heal and 6 mana.

Mantic Verbals

When casting a spell or miracle mantically it is not necessary for the verbal to be altered, when declaring the effect it is only necessary to add "...mantic..." as the prefix to the effect.

If desired where the effect is declared within the spell / miracle verbal the ...mantic... prefix may be added at that stage. In all things it is important that the caster makes it clear the effect is a mantic one.

Examples:

Mantic Extinguish Range: "Embodiment of Darkness go to there mantic Extinguish"

Mantic Cure Serious Wounds: "Spirits aid me, I abjure thee to staunch these wounds!" mantic cure serious wounds.

Holy Damage = Goodly spiritual + goodly (white) magic (mantic).

Unholy Damage = Evil spiritual + evil (black) magic (mantic).

Casting Mantics as an Elf (or similar)

While it is possible for an Elf to use mantics (or other creature immune to spirits, or even magic) they are limited in how they function. An elf using mantics cannot affect creatures that are spirit only with mantics, this includes if they have cast a mantic form themselves. If a spell cast by an elf is used by another (e.g.: mantic fire blade) then this continues to apply. As do extrapolations of this (Mantic plate vs. miracles etc.)

Examples of how mantic spells work.

The following examples assume that the spell is cast mantically using the Mancers multi-class option (see later for details) and not via an item or guild-granted type ability. Mantic effects used by those that are not mancens / priests suffer from the need to still require 'utilise spirit item' in order to inflict effects against a solely spiritual creature, though they could still affect a mantic only creature.

Grey: Plate [s] ~ Now grants 5 MAC/ 5 SAC / 5 PAC, would apply versus a solely spiritual attack. e.g. Spirit Bolt by using the relevant AC. Would apply against a mantic Plasma Bolt - stopping all its effect.

Black: Darkness [R] ~ Now requires the ability to see through [supernatural] mantic darkness in order to see. a normal see through darkness spell will not help at all - unless the caster is an Elf. It is not negated by normal Light spells or normal dispels - a Mantic Light would banish it and a Mantic Twilight would override it.

Blue: Dancing Sword ~ Now the weapon imbued becomes +2 mantic, it would have the skill to strike at a spirit formed priest and affect him, and would not be vanished by a normal Vanish spell.

Brown: Magnetise ~ Now this spell will work on an object containing a spirit - it still needs to be metal - so would not work on a purely spiritual mace, but would on a Holy Sword.

Green: Summon Undine ~ Now the undine has a spirit - and additionally sees with Spiritual Sight, as well as Elemental Sight. As stated previously, as it was created by mantic means it cannot be dispelled, nor will it negate, or be negated by, a non-mantic elemental. It could not be embodied [except mantically] - nor would a Bind Elemental work on it, unless that was also mantic.

Red: Disruption ~ Now this spell inflicts mantic damage and thus could kill a Wraith, the lowest of the targets MAC /SAC would apply - Immunity to Fire [as Table 3] would still apply - since that resistance grants 1/2 effect from supernatural fire.

White: Sabre of Light and Truth ~ This spell would causes spiritual damage as well as magical - and thus harm a priest in spirit form, as a side effect it would also allow the wielder to see through mantic darknesses.

Gold: Shield [Other] ~ This spell would grant +2 PAC /+2MAC /+2 SAC which would stack with their own innate defences- e.g. their ability of +4SAC- it would protect against mantic effects, magical and spiritual ones as appropriate..

Silver: Inquiry ~ This would also ask questions of any spirits in the area. Living spirits, or those of intelligent undead would be able to answer as they desire.

Ebony: Pass Unknown ~ It would also prevent detection by spiritual sight, undead active spirit sight and other visual detections by creatures made by magic / spirits / mantics without minds (e.g. statues, and undead not elves and humans).

Ivory: Sanctuary ~ The benefits of a Sanctuary spell would now extend against purely spiritual attacks, increase the resistance level to 9th versus spirits, and the Chosen of the Drake effect would affect a spiritual only marked ally.

Multi-Class Options

Below are various Advanced Classes. Where a class does not have a specific bracket associated with it (such as Acrobat) then it is deemed to be within the character's original bracket.

Acrobat

Although most acrobats earn their livings through their athletic skills, it is not uncommon for naturally agile adventurers to spend a little time learning acrobatic skills to enhance their physical prowess.

| LEVEL | ABILITIES                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|-------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | +4 DAC only vs. blows struck while Leaping, Back Flipping or Hand Springing, which may exceed the Acrobat's normal max AC (not above 12). No abilities in this class may be used when wearing armour heavier than studded leather.                       |
| 2     | Salmon Leap x1/2 levels (25,6) as tables.                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 3     | Back Flip x1/2 levels (20,6) as tables.                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| 4     | +1 DAC.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| 5     | Hand Spring x1/3 levels (25,4) - this allows the acrobat to spring ten feet in any direction, as per a Leap, at the end of any other Jump or Back Flip (not after a Hand Spring). Must have one hand free when this is used.                             |
| 6     | May strike a blow x1/2 levels (80,2) during a Leap or Back Flip (not during a Hand Spring). This blow has a maximum of 24pt Quad. Only one blow may be struck during a single Leap using this ability. Lightning Reactions grants immunity to this blow. |

Post 6th: Agility – DAC gained at level 1 will now go above Max AC 12, and is still considered AC. Cost: 50

Adept

Neuronicists who reach a certain level of mastery are known as Adepts - their control over their minds, and of their minds over their bodies, allows them to do things which other, lesser neuronicists find impossible.

This class is available to any of Seer, Mystic, Psi-Master, Silver Warden, Elysian Psychic, Silver Folk Psychers and Slayers, Farfolk Awakeners, or Psi-Drowe.

|-------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | May drink an additional two 6pt cure potions per day for each level of this multi-class bought. Is no longer limited to a maximum drinkable per hour.               |
| 2     | +1 NAC (Neuronic Armour Class) - this reduces incoming neuronic damage by 1pt to the head and 1pt tblp for each point of NAC possessed before any other reductions. |
| 3     | May now use neuronics 30 seconds after suffering an Emotion effect (as per Oraculum Insight, rather than five minutes*).                                            |
| 4     | +2 NAC (total).                                                                                                                                                     |
| 5     | Now always rounds incoming neuronic damage down to the nearest whole point below, where applicable.                                                                 |
| 6     | +3 NAC (total). May use Neural Foci to reduce casting damage from own neuronics to 1/6 original cost (rounded up), from 1/3.                                        |

*Psi-Drowe, Silver Folk neuronic classes and Awakeners who buy this class do not receive the level 3 ability, instead gaining 'half-damage from incoming neuronics' as per other neuronic classes.

Adventurer

All mercenaries naturally learn what things might be useful for them to have; a scroll here, a potion there, and the odd trinket. However a few are so prepared they keep a chest of these things at home, or make contacts with those able to provide them so they can pull them out whenever they head off on the mercenary trail.

| LEVEL | ABILITIES                                                                                                                                                                      |
|-------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | Gains Well Equipped with 2 power of standard scrolls per level of this class. These can be magical or spiritual.All objects in this class must have appropriate phys reps. |
| 2     | Well Equipped with two 6 point healing potions per level of this class                                                                                                         |
| 3     | Contacts – Starts the dungeon with 6 ISP of standard items. These may clearly not benefit from once ever uses or similar reductions, and are personalised to the owner.        |
| 4     | Seen it all before 1/day – Acts as a knowledge based major prayer about a ward/creature/similar that mercenaries may have chatted about in the tavern (40,3)                   |
| 5     | Word of Warning – Acts as a pre-dungeon lucky idea about what equipment would be useful to have.                                                                               |
| 6     | Contacts now grants 12 ISP of equipment                                                                                                                                        |

Post 6th: May buy extra power for scrolls at 20 points per 2 power, max 5.
May buy extra ISP for Contacts at 20 points per 2 ISP, max 3.

Alchemist

Potion-makers with wizardly talents who experiment with binding magic to the potions they brew are known as Alchemists - the potions that Alchemists can learn to make are unstable but magically potent. This class is available only to multi-classed Wizard/Scout-subclass combinations, who have Discern and Make General Potions skill to at least 5th level.

|-------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | May choose one glyph of grey or own colour of up to 3 rd level (following restrictions set out below) and make one potion of this glyph per level of skill in Make General Potions, per day, at a cost of 150 Grulls per dose. |
| 2     | May choose another glyph exactly as level 1 above to manufacture, with the same restrictions.                                                                                                                                             |
| 3     | May choose another glyph exactly as level 1 above to manufacture, with the same restrictions, except that this glyph may additionally be a specialist glyph known by the alchemist, if desired.                                           |
| 4     | May choose one glyph of grey or own colour of up to 4 th level and make one potion of this glyph for each two levels of skill as above, per day, at a cost of 200 Grulls per dose.                                             |
| 5     | May choose one glyph of grey or own colour of up to 6 th level and make one potion of this glyph for each two levels of skill as above, per day, at a cost of 300 Grulls per dose.                                             |
| 6     | May choose one glyph of grey or own colour of up to 8 th level and make one potion of this glyph for each three levels of skill as above, per day, at a cost of 400 Grulls per day.                                            |

Glyphs chosen as above must be recorded on the character card at the time of choice, and may not be changed. Potions may only be made of 'self' range glyphs, summonations, or touch-range glyphs, in which case they are considered salves in the manner of blade venom and must be applied to the target directly. The potions created by this class as above are all considered to be adventure-temporary only, and no cards are ever issued, unless 'Permanence' below is bought.

Post-6th, the Alchemist may buy the ability to make potions of any standard 'self' or 'summoning' spell at a cost of 5pts per mana point of the spell to acquire the recipe, and 50 grulls per mana point per dose to manufacture. Not more than one dose of each such potion may be made per day for each three levels of skill in Make General Potions the Alchemist has.
Advanced or non-published spells, whether self or otherwise, may not be learnt in this way.

Notes: To make any of the above potions, the Alchemist must have the appropriate glyph (specialists count); potions made through this multiclass are adventure temp, i.e. no cards are issued for them, and they are usable only on the adventure for which they are paid for, on which the Alchemist must be present.

Magical potions radiate a passive mana level equal to the glyph which they mimic, and may be dispelled as such.

Whoever opens a potion of Summon Elemental summons it, and has control of the elemental for its duration. This also applies to other summon spells, e.g. Summon Scarecrow, Dancing Sword, Unseen Servant.

Grulls for the manufacture of these potions are payable to the battle boarding Ref.

Post-6th: May learn 'Permanence' for 60 points. Any magical potion which can be made by the Alchemist can now be made as a permanent potion on a card. The chance of success is calculated as for normal potions with a Difficulty Level equal to the spell level. The maximum which can be made in one weekend is as per numbers described above (e.g. Chameleon(s) max of 1 per skill level). Only one type of magical potion may be made in a weekend, and this uses up all available 'making time' for the Alchemist. The cost is five times the cost of an adventure-temporary version, 250 Grulls per mana point of the spell. Alchemical Preparation cannot be used in conjunction with this ability.

Arch-Druid

The Arch-Druid is a Druid who has reached a senior level of importance in the eyes of Nature. Other Druids naturally defer to their judgement, and their place in the druidic hierarchy is unchallenged.

This class is available to Druids or High Druids, but not Forest Guardians or Leywalkers.

|-------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | +6 EP, non-cumulative with other EP from multi-classes, or gains 8 EP of innates. Recognise Arch-Druid at will, line-of-sight range.                                                                                                                                          |
| 2     | +12 EP (total), or 16 EP of innates as above. Command (Non-Arch) Druid x1/day as per an earthpower, non-level based VOP of up to 3 words in length. This Command cannot be suicidal in nature, and must take into account the respect all Druids have for each other (50, 6). |
| 3     | +18 EP (total), or 24EP of innates as above.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| 4     | +24 EP (total), or 32 EP of innates as above. Total Neutrality to normal and giant animals and plants - loses all multi-class benefits if ever broken.                                                                                                                        |
| 5     | +30 EP (total), or 40 EP of innates as above.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 6     | +36 EP (total), or 48 EP of nnates as above. May buy Chosen of the Horned Man and Chosen of Mother Nature at half-cost.                                                                                                                                                       |

Arch-Mage

The Archmage class is a simple progression along the path of magical power, as wizards train their minds to bend greater amounts of power to their will. The mana gained from this class is not cumulative with mana gained from any other multi-class. This class may be purchased by any Wizard, including High Wizard.

| LEVEL | ABILITIES                                                                      |
|-------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | +6 mana, or 8 mana of innates                                                  |
| 2     | +12 mana (total), or 16 mana of innates.                                       |
| 3     | +18 mana (total), or 24 mana of innates. +1 level for casting spells.          |
| 4     | +24 mana (total), or 32 Mana of innates.                                       |
| 5     | +30 mana (total), or 40 Mana of innates.                                       |
| 6     | +36 mana (total), or 48 mana of innates. +2 levels for casting spells (total). |

Armour Master

Many warriors use armour to defend themselves against blows, but few truly master it.

| 1     | Armour Mastery may now be applied vs. the relevant Pure Weapons (if the armour would normally apply to them) e.g. Armour Mastery vs. Sharp can apply vs. a Pure Sword. Abilities in this class only apply if a character is wearing Medium or Heavy Armour.Must have Smithing skill.May never leave the Warrior Bracket. |
| 2     | Gains + 1 point of Armour Mastery vs. Sharp and Blunt, stacking with published Armour Masteries.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 3     | Taking the Hit 1/3 Levels – As the Warrior Ability. ## Art of Battle

Many warriors learn how to evade arrows, or remain steady on an uneven floor, or even avoid blows. However those that master these ways can turn these tricks to their advantage in combat.

Art of War

Many warriors learn how to disarm opponents, or stun them, or even knock them back. A few however seek to master these ways and take advantages of opponents' weaknesses.

Artisan of the Mind

Only recently have those with powers of the mind learnt to bind their powers to crystals for others to use them, but with those secrets being unlocked some have chosen to master them.

Post 6th: True Craftsman: 100 points. May now make items with innates of any published neuronic ability. These however have double the normal percentage penalty and require twice as many rolls as normal.

Battlemaster

Although many Warriors tire of constantly killing and learning only the arts of war, so diversifying into other areas of skill, an equal number revel in the battle always, and do all they can to further their knowledge of tactics and combat techniques. Battlemaster is the title given to those who dedicate themselves entirely to this practise, to the exclusion of all other learning, pledging never to follow any path bar that of the Warrior.

The Battlemaster class is extremely restricted - any character purchasing it must follow the restrictions below:

They may never multi-class outside the Warrior bracket;

They may never acquire the ability to buy outside the Warrior bracket;

They may never acquire power points of any kind;

They may never acquire neuronics other than the Passive and Active trees on the tables;

They may never utilise spell/miracle/evocation innates of above 5th level, except from items.

It should be noted:

Silver Folk – Retain their 1st to 8th Neuronics despite the above restrictions.

Elves/Draves/Fairies – May continue to use their base 1st to 8th racial innates (including Double and Triple) but not any additional innates above 5th level purchased post 8th.

There are three versions of the class, differing slightly in their details according to the preferred weapon(s) of the warrior in question.

The first and most common is that which requires the use of an 'O' class weapon of at least 'broad' length in one hand, and typically a shield on the other arm. Unless a shield is used the other hand must remain empty, although unarmed combat may be used.

The other two versions are the 'B'-class version which requires the use of a weapon in two hands, and the 'E'-class version which requires a weapon in either hand.

Unlike most multi-classes the different class variants may each be purchased by the same character.

| 5     | From Enhanced Distancing Combat, may use Enhanced Distancing (and later Defensive Combat) with an 'O' class weapon of at least 30", or if Enhanced Weapon Mastery Shield is possessed is no longer restricted to DAC 6.                         |

‘B’ Class version

Where detailed both in this book and other rules publications, a B class weapon is only a B class weapon when wielded in both hands. Many weapons can only be wielded in two hands, but some weapons can be wielded as a bastard weapon. These bastard weapons only count as B class when wielded in both hands.

Post 6th Battle-Master

There are various post Battle-Master abilities listed in En-Garde, however below are some additional ones specific to the class abilities. They are available to any variant of Battle-Master.

Greater Blade-Fury – When using a Blade Fury may instead chose to gain 1/6th off Weapon Blows. This only applies to the innates gained from the basic class and not any points requests that do not specifically mention this ability.

Cost: 50

Eye for an Opponent – From Greater Blade-Fury. When using Greater Blade-Fury the Opponent Study will now grant ¼ off the chosen opponent. The Greater Blade fury continues to provide 1/6th off all other opponents.

Cost: 50

One on One – No longer needs to have a Blade-Fury active to use an Opponent Study vs. a target. This cannot be used in conjunction with Eye for an Opponent.

Cost: 80

Always Prepared – Opponent Study no longer has any prep time.

Cost: 50

Seen it Before – Warrior's Eye will now reveal if the target has super-natural hits. It does not reveal the type of hits, or the number, just that they have them.

Cost: 40

Bounty Hunter

Many adventurers look for ways to make money in addition to the basic payment for missions for which they are hired. Those public-spirited mercenaries, who find the actions of mercenaries who slay their comrades, or otherwise act directly against the interests of the relevant authorities, often turn to official bounty-hunting as a way of supplementing their income. These people become wily in the ways of legal bureaucracy, and can often get a greater reward for such an outlaw than the official one. This class is available only to Warriors, Rangers, Archers, scout sub-classes and Forest Guardians.

|-------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | Gains Discern Criminal at will, takes 3 seconds inspection, 20' range, discerns degree of outlawhood (e.g. racially outlawed, 'wolveshead'). This is a physical discern. |
| 2     | Gains Tracking skill as Ranger.                                                                                                                                          |
| 3     | Gains Sniff skill, and can always identify the smell of a racially outlawed race. Now paid double the normal reward for non-racial Outlaws.                              |
| 4     | Gains Acute Hearing skill.                                                                                                                                               |
| 5     | Gains +1 cumulative Mastery in one weapon of choice.                                                                                                                     |
| 6     | Gains Enhanced Tracking skill whereby individual tracks can be distinguished from others of same race - takes 'Zombie speed' inspection of area.                         |

Post 6th: May purchased Enhanced Discern Outlaw (as Scout ability) for 50 points.

Berserker

The Berserker is a warrior-subclass – Fighters that are totally obsessed with combat. Whenever they see a fight going on they will join in, regardless of injury or the fact that they might die. Until the combat is over and there is nothing left to fight they will attempt to kill everything animate before them.

The Berserking Spirit is often one way of explaining the powers of these fighters – a vicious and savage spirit that takes hold of a warrior. Some embrace this way of life, while others try to hide this facet of their personality. Many claim not to remember what has happened to them whilst the ‘frenzy’ has taken them, while some have been known to break down in tears at the terrible things they have done. As part of their nature they are a superstitious class – who beyond all things fear the supernatural especially Magic.

This class is only available to Tribal Characters, Alfar, Dwarves, and Ggrutuck. Anyone that has already taken it can remain a Berserker, but it is not possible for new characters to multi-class to this class unless they fulfill the above requirements.

**The above life scale is for Human Berserkers – other races follow the life scale of Warriors of their race. Stamina and Unarmed Combat are as per the Warrior Specialist Skills.*

Strength is as per the tables ability – this grade applies at all times, still max 2.

Enhanced Berserker Spirit: This ability makes the Berserker, whilst raging, immune to the following physical and spiritual effects: Paralysis, Freeze and Fear.

Berserkers are subject to certain restrictions from 1st level as listed below.

1. Berserkers must be Chaotic in alignment
2. Berserkers are very superstitious and afraid of magic, therefore if any noticeable magic, or visual seemingly supernatural effects are cast the Berserker must flee from them (Immunity to Fear does not apply)
3. Berserkers may not use any magical items of any sort.
4. Berserkers may not use shields or any armour above Studded Leather [bar Dwarves who may continue to wear any metal armour].
5. Berserkers may not leave combat until it is over, barring rule 2 above.
6. Berserkers failing to fulfill their role will find the Berserking Spirit leave them in disgust resulting in them dying, with the only option available being Rebirth – i.e. no resurrection effect will work.

Post-6th: Berserkers may buy abilities as Berserker.

Chi Warrior

The name Chi Warrior is somewhat of a misnomer, for this class is followed solely by Pure Priests - the name is in honour of the founder of the class, who learned its secrets by studying with certain Amlesian warriors – however the teachings are now more generally available.

The Chi Warrior seeks to perfect the link between the spirit and the body, by studying the motion and flow of each and then combining them to a near perfect defensive martial art. Should a Chi Warrior attack any creature without first being attacked themselves they lose the dexterity and parrying skills of the class for the rest of the day.

Chi Warriors may fight with pure spirit weapons, but not with physical ones, even if after acquiring this multiclass they gain the ability to use such a weapon.

Post-6th: May buy as Monk (may not acquire the ability to use physical weapons).

The life listed above is that gained by Pure Priests who have Human life by level. In the case of races whose life is less than that of Humans, such as Ancient Folk or Alfar, the life gained by level is instead that of a warrior of their own race.

Clairvoyant

Most people have the latent neuronics ability that is only seen fully developed in a rare few. Even late in life, with training it is possible to unlock the mind's hidden talents - although those who have started study past adolescence have little hope of ever fully mastering such paths.

There are two main branches of study followed by such people, of which the first, dedicated to divination and investigation, is the Clairvoyant. To represent the dedication to learning this new art, before any character may begin purchasing this class they must be 'fully passive', having bought all abilities available to them from the passive neuronics table.

This class is available to any non-tribal character and to Farfolk, unless the character is restricted from acquiring neuronics. All life costs for neuronics abilities are as per the published abilities. This class is, of course, in the neuronics class bracket.

Post-6th: May buy as Seer 3 tables lower than they currently are.

This includes additional uses post-6th of the above innates, and of Seer 1st-8th innates from Oraculum Insight. Neuronics classes who purchase this class may buy as Seer up to their own table however.

Demon Slayer

Many mothers frighten their children with tales of Demons when they behave badly; the incidence of corruption and Evil within the Empire and other places means that the summonation or loosing of such creatures is regrettably common. As a result, it is quite common for mercenary types, or those whose religion opposes them to demonkind, to train in ways specially designed for the combating of demons. There are many goodly powers only too willing to lend their might to any who choose to slay their enemies, even if the Demon-Slayer does not worship them directly. It should be remembered that the Baronies demon-descended races (Blauz, Ggrutuck and Duidoin) are not demonkind. This class is available to any goodly weapons-using character.

| 1     | Now gains only half points for the adventure if a Demonkind which could be harmed by the Demon-Slayer is left alive on adventure (this restriction doesn't apply if the Demonkind fled out of reach). Gains +1 base damage increase with any weapons used when combating an enemy they know to be Demonkind, due to greater inspiration. Gains Discern Demonkind at will, as tables.                                                                                                                             |
| 2     | Slayer's Blow x1/2 levels. May strike a single blow (or empower a single damaging spell/ miracle) such that it will harm any Demonkind which was capable of harming the Demon-Slayer, unless the Demonkind can only be harmed by a specific/unique weapon or technique - for example, the blow would inflict ranged, light-based damage, but would not inflict 'Laserbolt', nor count as ' The Runed Great Axe of King Sharmyn ' (30, ∞).                                                                 |
| 3     | Righteous Fury x1/3 levels - may enter a 33% rage against Demonkind only, in which may continue to use any offensive abilities possessed against the Demonkind (50, 3).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 4     | Banishment x1/3 levels - Banishes one Demonkind to its original plane of existence, which it then cannot leave for 24 hours. Caster takes 8 TBLP per resistance level of the Demonkind, but if this damage kills him he is not dead perm – (the Demonkind is also not slain, and may apply Immunity to Involuntary Mystical Transportation or Immunity to Hand of Purity to be immune to the effect entirely). If the demon is not banished then the innate is used but no life is taken. (95, 3). |
| 5     | Shield of Purity x1/day - all 'demonic' damage, whether it comes from demon-bound weapons, or spells or miracles cast with demonic power, is reduced by ¼, lasts 5 minutes or the length of combat with a specific Demonkind (whichever is longer) (75, 2).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| 6     | Summon Weapon of Retribution x1/day - summons a weapon of choice into the caster's hands which will inflict 'holy' (good spirit/white mana) damage versus one chosen Demonkind only; this weapon may be either pure or physical, as decided when summoned. It cannot harm creatures other than the chosen Demonkind, but against them has +1 maximum damage, and may only be wielded by the summoner (60, 2).                                                                                                    |

Defender of Nature

This Multi-Class is only in the Druidic Bracket. Once taken the Druid may not later multi-class into the warrior bracket.

| LEVEL | LIFE  | ABILITIES                               |
|-------|-------|-----------------------------------------|
| 1     | 30/10 | Max. AC = 9. 'O' skill as Warrior.      |
| 2     | 36/12 |                                         |
| 3     | 42/14 | 'E' skill as Warrior.                   |
| 4     | 48/16 | 'B' skill as Warrior.                   |
| 5     | 54/18 |                                         |
| 6     | 60/20 | Warrior Specialist Skill (as Handbook). |

The above life scale is for Humans – other races use their own Warrior life scales.

Post-6th: Defenders of Nature may buy 'Warrior of Nature' for 60 points. This allows them to buy Warrior-subclass abilities of up to three tables below their own while they are not in any class bracket bar Druid. However if this ability is bought by a Forest Guardian, they may buy as Warrior up to three tables below their own, and as Warrior sub-class up to their own table, while they are not in any class bracket bar Druid.

Defender of the Faith

Many priests are required to take up arms in the name of their religion.

However many hold their religious devotions important enough that they are not willing to spend the time needed to train fully in the arts of battle.

These 'second rank' warriors of their faiths have spent a little time increasing their martial knowledge, but do not regularly train as do true warriors.

This class is available to any weapons-using priest class bar Wayfinders. The life scale gained below applies only to priests with base human life –priests of other races instead gain life by level as would a warrior of their own race. Once taken the priest cannot later multi-class into the warrior bracket.

| LEVEL | LIFE  | ABILITIES                               |
|-------|-------|-----------------------------------------|
| 1     | 30/10 | Max. AC = 9. 'O' skill as Warrior.      |
| 2     | 36/12 |                                         |
| 3     | 42/14 | 'E' skill as Warrior.                   |
| 4     | 48/16 | 'B' skill as Warrior.                   |
| 5     | 54/18 |                                         |
| 6     | 60/20 | Warrior Specialist Skill (as Handbook). |

Post-6th: Defenders of the Faith may buy 'Warrior of the Faith' for 60 points. This allows them to buy Warrior-subclass abilities of up to three tables below their own while they are not in any class bracket bar Priest. However if this ability is bought by a Spirit Warrior, they may buy as Warrior up to three tables below their own, and as Warrior sub-class up to their own table, while they are not in any class bracket bar Priest.

Devout Believer

Devout Believer is a multi-class available only to non-priests who have already bought the Lay Believer ability from the points tables. It may only be purchased by characters who have not multi-classed or Pathed outside their original class bracket, and once bought the character may never in the future do so. However, characters may purchase this class and still count as 'pure' for purposes of restrictions that require the character never to leave their own class bracket - so a Warrior may multi-class Devout Believer and Battlemaster, for example. Half-Elves must pay double to purchase this class. This class is not available to spiritless characters such as Farfolk or Elves.

|-------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | If not claiming a different guild then the Devout Believer may benefit from church guild items if any are present.                                                                  |
| 2     | Gains Recognise Spirit at will, as Priest.                                                                                                                                          |
| 3     | Gains Discern Own Priest Guild-member at will. This is a spiritual discern, 20' range, and 'Own Guild' refers to the priest guild in which Lay Believer has been bought previously. |
| 4     | Are now full members of the Church, including being able to claim guild benefits (Providing the character could normally claim guild benefits).                                     |
| 5     | Gains Discern Nature of Wounds at will, as Priest.                                                                                                                                  |
| 6     | Gains Utilise Spirit Item of own alignment (Good/Neutral/Evil) ability, otherwise as per Spirit Warrior of same alignment.                                                          |

Devout Druid

This multi-class is very similar to the priest class 'Devout Priest' but instead allows the Druidic class to gain further Earthpower via deeper and more meaningful meditation and learnings. The Earthpower in this class does not stack with that from any other multi-class such as Arch Druid – but would stack with a MC that increased base levels of EP, e.g. Guardian of Nature above. This class is only available to Forest Guardians, Druids and High Druids.

| LEVEL | ABILITIES                                                                                                                                                 |
|-------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | Gains +4 Earthpower, or 5 EP worth of innates                                                                                                             |
| 2     | Gains +4 (8 total) Earthpower, or 10 (total) EP worth of innates                                                                                          |
| 3     | Gains +4 (12 total) Earthpower, or 16 (total) EP worth of innates                                                                                         |
| 4     | Gains +4 (16 total) Earthpower, or 21 (total) EP worth of innates                                                                                         |
| 5     | Gains +4 (20 total) Earthpower, or 26 (total) EP worth of innates.                                                                                        |
| 6     | Gains +4 (24 total) Earthpower, or 32 (total) EP worth of innates.Gains +1 x Meditation rate – fully stacking with any others but to a max of 5 ever. |

Devout Priest

Priests, like other groups, have varying degrees of dedication to their beliefs. By entering deep meditation and reflection on the cause of their faith a few priests will start to form a stronger link with their patron, the strongest links being formed by the most devout followers. Those who are most devout in their beliefs are called Devout Priests, and are favoured by their gods - their spiritual power is greater than others.

This class is available to any 1st class priest bar Spirit Warriors or Wayfinders.

Disenchanter

Although the abilities developed by those wizards who follow this class are ideal for use in combat against other wizards, not all who study this art use their powers for killing - the talents learnt here are equally suited to defence. This class is available only to 1st-class Wizards who have not left the Wizard bracket, and once it is purchased they may not then do so. Non-Grey wizards who purchase this class may not also purchase the ability 2nd Colour from the tables - Grey Wizards may however do so.

| 6     | Gains Deny Power glyph - 6 mana Grey spell, verbal 'I deny thee power', range 20', which negates one non-'self' spell "as it is cast" (within 2 seconds of incantation of verbal), entirely preventing the spell's functioning. E.g. would negate a Fireblade, Plate(o), or Catalepsy, but not a Rockskin as it has range self only. Deny Power itself cannot be negated by Deny Power. |

Post-6th: May buy one ability as if 1st-colour Grey Wizard.

Elemental Student

Rogues are most often those who in early life sought apprenticeship as wizards but found the limited, scholarly life too restrictive for their temperaments and left with only a basic grounding in magical studies. However, their wizardly training is still far greater than that possessed by most people, and as such it is easier for them to pick up further glyphs and techniques. This class does not require the same long hours of bookish devotion as true wizards.

Elemental Student is available to any Rogue.

Focal Mage

Whilst many wizards use a magical focus to assist them in the casting of more difficult spells, a few dedicated individuals have taken the development of such a crutch to even greater levels. To acquire this multi-class first the tables ability of Magical Focus must be possessed. This object is called the Primary Magical Focus and must be an excellent phys rep (prop) which when seen is obviously a tool for mage craft. The Focus may not be 'worn'. i.e. the Primary Focus cannot be a ring or an item of clothing, but something specifically held in the hand, like a wand, a box, a complex scroll examined during use or a staff. The player can choose another type of phys rep which meets these restrictions when the multi-class is begun. This class is only available to Wizards, including High Wizards.

| 1     | The user gains an additional 3 mana points per level of this multiclass for casting spells when using the Primary Magical Focus to grant additional casting levels, or 4 mana worth of innates per level. This mana does not stack with mana from other multi-classes or multi-races, such as Arch-Mage.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 2     | If the Primary Magical Focus is lost and not recovered by the end of the adventure a new Primary Magical Focus is gained before the next adventure.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 3     | The Primary Magical Focus now grants an additional casting level which is cumulative with those normally granted when held in one or both hands when casting a spell. The magical focus and the casting levels granted by this class may now be used during the research of new spells.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| 4     | If the Primary Magical Focus is a safe combat weapon style phys rep (e.g. a Staff which would pass a weapon check) then it may be used to block weapon blows without disbenefit, even if the character could not normally use weapons – this does mean that a High Wizard can parry with the focus. If the Primary Magical Focus is not a safe phys rep for such, then a Secondary Magical Focus is acquired. This can either be a staff or rod as described above and used to block blows OR if used at the same time as the Primary Focus during the casting of spells grants no damage casting spells which cost mana points and would normally cost only 1 TBLP in casting damage. This choice must be made when the level is bought and written on the character card as level 4-Block if the parrying option is taken, or 4-Damage if the immunity to casting damage option is taken. |
| 5     | The Primary Focus can be called to hand (shifts as per an elemental the focal mage could normally summon by casting a summon elemental spell they possess. This could require a suitable amount of the appropriate element at the arrival point, but not where the Primary Focus currently is) with the expenditure of 3 TBLP of casting damage and 10 seconds undisturbed concentration. If the wizard could not summon an elemental this ability is not gained.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |

|---|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 6 | The Primary Magical Focus now grants another additional casting level which is cumulative with those normally granted when held in one or both hands when casting a spell. This may be used during the research of new spells. This brings the number of casting levels granted by the Magical Focus up to +4 total. |
|---|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|

Post 6th: Channelling: If Focal Mage “Weapon” has been selected then the Mage may buy innates that allow them to 1/day channel a touch range spell through their focus for 20 points per use. If the spell requires two handed contact then both hands must be on the focus when used. When 5 innates have been purchased this may be upgraded to at will for 75 points on table 10.

Fury Within

Warriors often find focussing their inner anger and unleashing it helps against the most powerful foes. Those that give in to this rage often die rapidly, but those that master it find that it can become their most powerful tool. Those that take this class may not also be a Berserker.

|-------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | While Raging can distinguish between friend and foe. As such only has to attack those that are directly hostile to the character.                                                                                                                                                          |
| 2     | While Raging gains +6/2 temp life. Does not stack with supernatural temp life, but does with other physical temp life (e.g. Life from Adrenal Surge). This life is only gained for the first Rage of each 5 minute period.                                                                 |
| 3     | Cold Rage (as per the Warrior specialist skill) Once per 30 minutes.                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 4     | When using a 50% or greater rage gains + 1 Max Damage as per Adrenal Surge, so not stacking with it.                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 5     | Now gains +12/4 temp life (from +6/2).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| 6     | May now stack two Rages together. If using two 25% Rages gains a 33% Rage, if using a 50% Rage and a 25% gains a 66% Rage, and finally if using two 50% Rages then gains a 75% Rage. At least one of these Rages must be an innate Rage (e.g. cannot stack 2 at will, or permanent rages). |

Post 6th: May upgrade the Cold Rage from level three to once per 15 minutes for 150 points on Table 9, and to at will for a further 150 points on table 10.

Rage Within – Providing the Rage is the last damage reduction applied fractions will round down, to a minimum of 1 point suffered. Cannot leave the Warrior Subclass if this is purchased. This costs 100 points on table 10.

Guardian of Nature

This multi-class is similar to the priest class Weapons Priest. It is available to Druids and Forest Guardians only. If this class is possessed then the character may not also enter the Warrior Bracket.

Post-6th: Guardian of Nature, may buy Warrior of Nature for 150pts. This allows the Druid to buy Warrior-Subclass published abilities from the tables three below their own, as long as they are not in any class bracket bar Druid.

High Warlock

Any Warlock who survives until sufficient points may elect to follow this class, showing their dedication to the Warlock's way of life. The class of High Warlock simply enhances a Warlock's natural talents, better enabling them to fulfil their role, wielding mighty magics in combat and using them to supplement their martial skills. The life-scale below is used by human warlocks – other races use the life-scale appropriate to warriors of their own race.

|-------|-------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | 30/10 | Base Max. AC = 9. Gains +3 mana per level of this class, usable only on combat related spells as normal (non-stacking with mana granted by other multi-classes), or 4 mana worth of innates per level.                                      |
| 2     | 36/12 | Base mana now calculated as Sorcerer.                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 3     | 42/14 | Now takes no damage from casting combat related spells that would otherwise cost only 1 TBLP to cast.                                                                                                                                       |

| 6     | 60/20 | At will for 3 mana and appropriate casting damage may enhance own primary weapon (not pair of weapons) to inflict magical damage of own colour (choose either if 2 nd -Coloured) for 5 minutes when wielded by the Warlock only. |

Post-6th: May buy either:

‘Completeness’ for 80 points on Table 9. The Warlock may now cast handbook grey spells as a normal wizard, without the need to learn them as specialists. These glyphs can still only be cast for combat-related reasons. OR

‘Magic’s Champion’ for 125 points on Table 9. Allows Warlock to inflict a maximum damage of Quin when using a magical bastard sword in two hands (temporarily magically enhanced weapons are sufficient - e.g. by level 6 ability above). May never acquire both abilities.

Juggernaut

Some are focussed on never giving in, never surrendering, so determined they will push through almost anything thrown at them. These become unstoppable Juggernauts.

| 1     | Must have Determination.Gains 6 casting stamina per level for determination damage.                                                                                                                                                         |
| 2     | Focussed Determination 1/2 levels – Once determination has been applied to an effect, gains immunity to that effect for 10 seconds and no longer suffers determination damage from it. Must be declared within 2 seconds of the initial attack. |
| 3     | Unstoppable 1/3 Levels – May apply determination as per the spell Mobility for 5 minutes. Any effect that would require a mobility (rather than normal determination) costs 12 TBLP per use.                                             |
| 4     | Can now apply determination vs. Domination effects costing 18TBLP per use.                                                                                                                                                                      |
| 5     | Determination Damage can no longer kill, instead the effect that would cause death is instead taken at full effect.                                                                                                                             |
| 6     | Focussed Determination now lasts 30 seconds.                                                                                                                                                                                                    |

Life's Avenger

Many Goodly gods desire their followers to destroy the tainted spirits of Undeath wherever they are encountered - priests who are charged to use any reasonable power within their grasp to destroy these foul creatures, are frequently granted additional powers to do so. Life's Avengers are those who have dedicated themselves specifically to this task. This class is available to any goodly Priest or Paladin with Major Sphere Dismissal. Half-elves must pay double to purchase this class.

| LEVEL | ABILITIES                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|-------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | At all times, when undead with an extended creation point, e.g. from an Undead Master, approaches within 5' of an Avenger, that undead's creation point is returned permanently to its normal base range. Protection from Evil Spirits miracles cast by the Priest one level higher against undead. |
| 2     | Life's Cry x1/2 levels - may call the name of their god to grant immunity to any Undead touch effects for the next 5 minutes. This may be used within 2secs of suffering effect, as War Cry (75,3).                                                                                                 |
| 3     | Hand of Purification/Purity now costs only 8 TBLP per undead dismiss level to use, from 10.                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 4     | Life's Rage x1/3 levels - only usable against undead, applies versus all damage from undead and reduces the damage taken from using Hand of Purity, may still cast miracles on self or undead, otherwise as Cold Rage on tables (40,3).                                                             |
| 5     | Attract Undead x1/day (30,∞), Repel Undead x1/day (30,∞).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| 6     | Total immunity to all forms of Domination from an Undead source.No longer perm dies if dies due to the life suffered from the use of a Hand of Purity/Purification.                                                                                                                             |

Post-6th: May buy 'advanced' miracle innates of dismissal sphere miracles for 10pts/spirit, or 7pts/spirit if either form of Devotion is owned. Additionally from 6 innates of Life's Cry the Avenger may purchase immunity to Non-handbook undead touch effects for 50 points on table 9, but all 6 innates are lost.

Magical Artisan

Most Wizards can learn to craft artefacts. A few however excel at this, binding the elements as not just mere trinkets but as true objects of power.

| LEVEL | ABILITIES                                                                                                                                                                              |
|-------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | Gains + 1% chance per level for crafting Magical Items (Not teaching Scrolls)                                                                                                          |
| 2     | ½ level loss from crafting Magical items.                                                                                                                                              |
| 3     | The cost of each roll is reduced by 10%                                                                                                                                                |
| 4     | Place of Power – The artisan has their own place of power. Reducing the number of successful rolls needed by 1 (to a minimum of 1). Does not stack with the CC benefit Place of Power. |
| 5     | The cost of each roll is now reduced by 20% total.                                                                                                                                     |
| 6     | Reciprocates Binding no longer has a 5% penalty if making the item for self.                                                                                                           |

Post-6th: True Magical Craftsman 100 points, table 10 – May manufacture items with innates of Advanced Grimoire spells. The % penalty is twice that of standard items (i.e. 2% per mana point) and the number of rolls is doubled as well (i.e. a 4 mana spell requires 8 successes).

Magical Calligrapher

All but a few wizards use teaching scrolls, often they may make a handsome living writing them, and a few decide that this is a way to ensure they make enough money to become extremely rich.

| LEVEL | ABILITIES                                                                         |
|-------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | Gains + 1% chance per level for writing teaching scrolls.                         |
| 2     | ½ level loss from writing teaching scrolls.                                       |
| 3     | The cost of each roll is reduced by 10%.                                          |
| 4     | Gains an additional "Slot" for using teaching scrolls per 2 levels of this class. |
| 5     | The cost of each roll is now reduced by 20% total.                                |
| 6     | Gains + 5% to making a teaching scroll if the spell has been learnt with points.  |

Mana Vortex

Some wizards find a way to draw directly on the mana within the air, and the world around them. This mana is fresh and weaker than that gained through the more focussed means, but is plentiful.

| LEVEL | ABILITIES                                                                                                                                     |
|-------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | Gains 2 mana per level that forms a separate pool of Mana. This mana can only be used to cast standard spells.                                |
| 2     | Mana from this pool regenerates at 1pt/60 minutes. This is not cumulative with any other power regen or meditation.                           |
| 3     | Power drawn ½ levels – With 2 minutes uninterrupted concentration may transfer up to 6 power from this class to the wizards normal mana pool. |
| 4     | Mana now regenerates at 1/30 minutes.                                                                                                         |
| 5     | Mana now regenerates at 1/15 minutes.                                                                                                         |
| 6     | Mana now regenerates at a rate of 1/5 minutes.                                                                                                |

Mancer

Although white and black wizards find it easiest to Path and master the complexities of the spirit world, as their respective dragons are the most willing for their followers to make this study, it is possible for any wizard to grasp much of the essence of the path of 'mancy, the combination of spirits and mana.

However unlike a true path the great flexibility of mana and spirits is not present, the wizard simply casts any spell mantically, but cannot cast miracles, losing out on a potential 30 to 50 possible power points if the true Path had been taken.

This class is fully a Path, and so has an initial cost of 25 points which must be spent on Pathing before the class can be started. Once this is bought, the following restrictions apply to the wizard:

They forever lose all glyphs except those of their primary 1st colour, and may never possess specialist glyphs of other colours; they may only utilise magical items of their own colour (a normal +0 magic weapon is grey). See the pathing section earlier for more details on second colours.

If a wizard has acquired two 1st colours by some means they may keep both colours.

They may additionally use mantic items of their own colour, although they may not use spiritual items or innates; they may choose to cast spells normally (non-mantically), even with their mantic mana; casting cost for a mantic spell is double the TBLP which the spell would normally cost. They may inflict spiritual damage with mantic items and mantic spells, including summoned weapons etc.

It should be noted that the cost of the multi-class below covers the ability to cast any standard spell mantically, but does not allow the casting of any non-standard or Wizard's Grimoire spell mantically.

See below for details of how to cast these mantically.

Grey wizards who follow this class lose all their specialist glyph slots, as noted above, unless they have purchased Chromatic Wizard. In this case for an additional 200 points they may cast all handbook spells mantically. Mantic dispels do not affect active miracles or spiritual effects, or spiritual beings, or even mantic miracles. They do however affect glyphs and mantic glyphs as normal.

| LEVEL | ABILITIES                                                                                                                                                |
|-------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | Now has 1/6 of total mana for use on mantic spells. May cast own colour cantrip mantically for 2 TBLP. (May still cast spells non-mantically if desired) |
| 2     | 1/3 of total mana now mantic.                                                                                                                            |
| 3     | 1/2 total mana now mantic.                                                                                                                               |
| 4     | 2/3 total mana now mantic.                                                                                                                               |
| 5     | 5/6 total mana now mantic.                                                                                                                               |
| 6     | All wizard's mana is now mantic - may cast all standard spells of own colour mantically                                                                  |

Post-6th: Master of “Colour” ~ Purchased per colour owned. This allows the character to cast all published advanced spells owned of the chosen colour (which clearly they must have) mantically. It may be purchased for as many colours as are owned. It costs 250 points per purchase.

Alternatively they may learn to cast any published glyph that they know (of their own colour) at a cost of 5 points per mana point or 30 points for a cantrip. Non-standard spells must be applied for individually.

Master at Arms

Some Warriors have learnt to draw on their inner strength to infuse weapons with power, becoming a Master at Arms and dedicated to their chosen weapon. As they infuse their weapons with their own power the weapon becomes more and more one with the warrior, allowing them to perform greater feats with their weapon of choice. This class is open to any Monks, Kensai, Budoka, Fighters and Blade Masters who have acquired the 'Weapon Master' ability. Other Warrior classes may only acquire it once they have also completed the Battlemaster multi-class. This class is solely within the 'Warrior' bracket, it is not possible to acquire this class and be able to buy outside of the Warrior bracket. The character must be table 10 (3000pts) in order to buy this class.

|-------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | One weapon-type of choice (written on card when 1st level bought) is now immune to Shatter/Disintegrate/Warp/Rust/Melt and similar spells, including Auras of Defence, and Vanish, while wielded by the Master at Arms. Referred to as 'weapon of choice' for the rest of this class.                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 2     | Counts as having +1 additional mastery for purposes of Disarms only.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 3     | Weapon of choice now inflicts magical damage at all times while wielded by the Master at Arms. Weapon itself is not magical however.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 4     | Base damage inflicted by weapon of choice is increased by 3 points. These increases do stack with those in BattleMaster.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 5     | +1 additional mastery (+2 total) for purposes of Disarms only.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 6     | Base damage inflicted by weapon of choice is increased by a further 3 points (6 points total) and now inflicts magical or spiritual damage by choice at all times while wielded by the Master at Arms (not combined mantic damage however). The weapon itself is not spiritual or magical however. This grants the ability to utilise spiritual item for the purposes of using this class, but nothing else. The weapon may be used to parry purely magical or spiritual weapons. |

Post-6th: Combination; On Table 10 - May spend 100 points to inflict mantic damage at will as above.

Master of the Dead

Most priests can learn to control the dead, and those that summon them tend to focus on this, and few goodly priests even gain knowledge of it. However a few seek to master this art, regardless of their moral outlook, and understand the power that can be gained from controlling the dead. A priest must have all of the Control Undead tree on their miracle list to buy this class.

| LEVEL | ABILITIES                                                                                                                                                                            |
|-------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | Gains 3 spirits (or 4 spirits of innates) per level for use on miracles on the Control Undead tree.                                                                                  |
| 2     | No Damage Casting Control Undead miracles.                                                                                                                                           |
| 3     | Gains 1 Spirit off Control Undead miracles.                                                                                                                                          |
| 4     | Counts as 9th level for purposes of controlling undead.I am the master 1/day – One control miracle is cast as if an infinite level priest. (50,2)                                |
| 5     | Now gains 2 spirits off Control Undead miracles if the only order given is to return to the netherworld.                                                                             |
| 6     | Must have the ability Remember Unknown Undead Name and Reveal Undead Name on their miracle list to use this level, may now cast Reveal Undead Name for 0 spirits but costing 4 TBLP. |

Post-6th: May learn Command Undead as a Control Tree neutral miracle. All abilities in the class apply equally to it.

Natural Command: May control level 1 undead at will with full verbal for 3 TBLP. Cost: 75 points.

Master Scout

This class represents real devotion and study to the skills of the pathfinder, and long practice. To achieve this level of skill takes up enough time that it is not possible for a pathfinder who has taken this multi-class to leave the scout bracket, except to other classes that are at least in part in the scout bracket, e.g. could multi-class Rogue, but not Wizard. Only pathfinders can take this multi-class – other scout subclasses can instead multi-class pathfinder! Levels of skill in the standard skills gained below are calculated according to the multi-class level reached.

| LEVEL | ABILITIES                                                                                        |
|-------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | Gains one standard pathfinder skill                                                              |
| 2     | Gains one standard pathfinder skill                                                              |
| 3     | Gains +1 level of skill in one standard pathfinder skill already possessed (max skill level 12). |
| 4     | Gains one standard pathfinder skill                                                              |
| 5     | Gains one standard pathfinder skill                                                              |
| 6     | Gains one specialist pathfinder skill                                                            |

Post 6th: The ability + 3 skill levels may now be purchased as many times as desired.

Mystical Reserves

Often in the life of a mercenary they are required to draw on their own fortitude and stamina, be it to cast spells, surge through pain, or other reasons. Some find deeper reserves they can tap into.

|-------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | Gains + 3 Casting Stamina per level of this class.                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| 2     | Casting Stamina now recovers slowly, healing at a rate of 1 per hour, not stacking with other forms of regeneration                                                                                                                                                     |
| 3     | Casting Stamina now recovers at a rate of 1 per 30 minutes.                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 4     | Desperate Survival 1/day – Can OOC chose to use own Casting Stamina as additional Live to Minus. Any Casting Stamina used in this way is lost for the rest of the day. The additional Live to Minus lasts until the character is healed out of it or 5 minutes at most. |
| 5     | Casting Stamina now recovers at a rate of 1 per 15 minutes.                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 6     | Casting Stamina now recovers at a rate of 1 per 5 minutes.                                                                                                                                                                                                              |

Natural Artisan

With the dawning of the Third Age and the World Tree returning it became possible for Druids to find the powerful wood and plants they needed to craft trinkets, and now some have chosen to delve deeper into these arts.

| LEVEL | ABILITIES                                                                                                                                                                              |
|-------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | Gains + 1% chance per level for crafting Earthpower Items.                                                                                                                             |
| 2     | ½ level loss from crafting Earthpower items.                                                                                                                                           |
| 3     | The cost of each roll is reduced by 10%                                                                                                                                                |
| 4     | Place of Power – The artisan has their own place of power. Reducing the number of successful rolls needed by 1 (to a minimum of 1). Does not stack with the CC benefit Place of Power. |
| 5     | The cost of each roll is now reduced by 20% total.                                                                                                                                     |
| 6     | Reciprocates Binding no longer has a 5% penalty if making the item for self.                                                                                                           |

Post-6th: True Natural Craftsman 100 points table 10 – May manufacture items with innates of Advanced Evocations. The % penalty is twice that of standard items (e.g. 2% per EP) and the number of rolls is doubled as well (e.g. a 4 EP evocation requires 8 successes).

One with Nature

Closely tied to the world the Druid is able to draw power from the natural world about them.

| LEVEL | ABILITIES                                                                                                                                          |
|-------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | Gains 2 Earthpower per level that forms a separate pool of Earthpower. This can only be used to cast evocations on the Druid's base list.          |
| 2     | Earthpower from this pool regenerates at 1pt/60 minutes. This is not cumulative with any other power regen or meditation.                          |
| 3     | Power drawn ½ levels – With 2 minutes uninterrupted concentration may transfer up to 6 power from this class to the druid's own normal Earthpower. |
| 4     | Earthpower now regenerates at 1/30 minutes.                                                                                                        |
| 5     | Earthpower now regenerates at 1/15 minutes.                                                                                                        |
| 6     | Earthpower now regenerates at a rate of 1/5 minutes.                                                                                               |

Para-Psychic

This is the second of the two main paths followed by those studying neuronics in later life (see Clairvoyant). This class is dedicated to more combatant neuronics - as such no character may purchase it until they have bought all abilities available to them on the active neuronics table, including ten Neuronc Penetrations (unless already possessed from their class). Otherwise this class is available to any non-tribal character and Farfolk, unless that character is restricted from acquiring neuronics. All life costs are as published abilities. This class is in the neuronc bracket.

| LEVEL | ABILITIES                                                                                                                                       |
|-------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | Neuronc Penetration x2/level. If not already in the neuronc bracket gains potion restrictions as a neuronc class based on levels in this class. |
| 2     | Neuronc Flash x1/2 levels.                                                                                                                      |
| 3     | Telekinesis x1/2 levels.                                                                                                                        |
| 4     | Neuronc Flare x1/3 levels.                                                                                                                      |
| 5     | Neuronc Blast x1/3 levels.                                                                                                                      |
| 6     | Neuronc Whip x1/3 levels.                                                                                                                       |

Post-6th: Para-Psychics may buy as Mystic at 3 tables lower. This includes further uses of the above innates, and Mystic 1st-8th innates. Neuronc classes (but not races) who purchase this class may buy Mystic abilities at their own table.

Power-House

True warriors, who dedicate their lives to battle and only battle, naturally build up huge reserves of strength and stamina. Such physical power and resilience cannot truly be taught, but builds up over many fights, until it is clear that the warrior is substantially tougher than his compatriots. This class is only available to warrior sub-classes who have not left the warrior bracket, and once bought they may not leave the warrior bracket in the future.

Power-Monger

Wizards on occasion feel the need to resort to more physical methods of achieving their aims than pure and simple use of mana. To deal with their frustration many mages multi-class Warrior or War Mage, but a few find another path, reliant only on their own personal power granted by their Dragon (or Drake), reaching a level of inner calm denied others - making them better able to control themselves in combat. Due to their mastery of their own power, these wizards are called Power-Mongers. This class is available only to 1st-class Wizards.

Priest of the Runes

All priests are given basic education in the use of spiritual runes. Some study far enough to learn more potent forms such as the Rune of Transgression, or to use the power that runes lend to strengthen miracles such as the Minor Ward of Power. Few however have the luck to have teachers who know the greater mysteries of the runes. This class is available to any priest who can use neutral miracles, Minor Warding sphere miracles and has the Rune of Power miracle.

| 1     | May now cast the Enhance Rune of Power miracle with full verbal and gesture but for 0 spirits, in this case costing 3 tlp, must first have the miracle on their list.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 2     | Rune of Power may now be used to cause any 'other-affecting' miracle of 4 th level or below on the priest's list, instead of its normal effect - e.g. a goodly Priest could cause the Rune to trigger a Bless, or an Evil one a Cause Disease. All non-damaging offensive effects are still level-based as normal for Rune of Power. Runes cast in this way last at most 24 hours. If used in this way the en-runed miracle ceases to be a standard miracle.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 3     | Throwing the Runes - x1/2 levels, may throw the runes. This requires an excellent phys rep of rune-inscribed stones. The priest may specify a question for which they seek guidance, or simply ask their allied spirits for advice. The runes will reveal a message in reply in a similar manner to a single Communication II question. The spirits will never lie, but the ref may choose to be cryptic or not, as desired - it is possible at the ref's discretion to foretell the future with these replies (30, 4).                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 4     | Enruned Weapon - may now inscribe a Rune of Power upon the shaft of a physical weapon. The next blow struck with that weapon will trigger the appropriate effect upon the target. The user of the weapon need not be able to use spiritual items, but if they are of the opposite alignment to the power bound into the weapon they also suffer the effect if disbeneficial. This ability cannot be used with Enhance Rune of Power, nor with Greater Rune of Power below. Enruned Weapons must be wielded as a weapon and be an actual weapon phys-rep, so are not usable by pure priests.                                                                                                             |
| 5     | Rune of Warding - may now inscribe a Rune of Warding upon any piece of armour, or shield, or a weapon. On shields and weapons the inscription imbues the object with a warding spirit which allows the user to block purely spiritual blows (but not inflict spiritual damage themselves). On a piece of armour the rune will mean that the armour applies against purely spiritual weapon blows - additionally if the wearer can use neutral spiritual items additionally SAC up to ½ the PAC value (round down) of the armour. A separate rune is required for each armour location covered. Each such Rune of Warding costs the inscriber 1 spirit and associated casting damage and lasts 24 hours. |
| 6     | May now inscribe Runes of Transgression in the air itself - in this case they last only 15 minutes. These runes are visible, glowing even in the darkness.May now inscribe Greater Runes of Power - these cost 8 spirits and may bind any 'other-affecting' miracle on the priest's list of 6th level or below. They are non-level based.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |

Post 6th: Priests of the Runes may purchase Immunity to Baneful Runes of Power for 80 points on table 3.

Notes:

- These Runes of Power are all affected by Immunity to Rune of Power, and are level-based as normal, whether beneficial or otherwise.
- As should be clear from the description in the Words from Above book, all runes except where described above must be drawn either as Runes of Transgression or as Runes of Disturbance.
- Runes of Transgression are only triggered when a spirit not named in the casting passes through the protected area and Runes of Disturbance are only triggered when a spirit not named in the casting process actively moves the enruned object.
- It is not possible, for example, to inscribe a Rune of Disturbance on a rod so that when it is touched to a target it activates – the target must move the rod themselves.
- The description of the functioning of these runes in Words From Above should be read closely by anyone intending to use them.

Although Rune of Power is permanent, Priests of the Runes may not arrive on adventure with ready-prepared Runes without either expending the spirits from their battle-board or spending 25 points for each such prepared rune they bring, assigning the specific nature of the rune when bought; these pre-bought runes must be phys repped appropriately, and it should be remembered that a prepared Rune of Disturbance will generally not be usable by the caster, as they will need to name themselves in the verbal to be able to carry it, or if using Enruned Weapons will generally only be able to affect targets of lower than their own level. It is impossible to pre-prepare Greater Runes of Power. To draw a Rune of Power containing a power not listed in the handbook, the inscriber should draw a triangle with the spirit runes for the initials of the miracle within it. Outside the triangle there is a broken line parallel with each side of the triangle.

Psycher

All neuronists to one degree or another have practised the technique of injuring others' minds with mental power (barring the pacifist Elysians). This class represents the further devotion of long study to the arts of manipulating another's mind to influence them, in more powerful or more subtle ways. It is available to Silver Folk Psychers, Mystics and Psi-Drowe. All innates are as described in the Oraculum Insight. It should be made clear that the Silver Folk Psycher class differs from the general Psycher in a number of areas, and should not be confused.

| 6     | Neuronic Penetration may now be used at will, at most twice per minute using this ability (may still use innates as normal). For this ability to be used, character must also have at least 24 innate Neuronic Penetrations. |

Priestly Believer

This class represents a degree of further devotion from people such as Spirit Warriors and Wayfinders, who are restrained from the full priesthood by their use of bladed weapons. It allows more flexible manipulation of spirits, although not the complete versatility of power points. It is only available to characters in the priest bracket who have no spirit points, nor may they gain such later on. The priestly ability Spiritual Choice is a prerequisite for this class.

Scholar

The Scholar class represents study by the character to increase their general knowledge and store of arcane lore; the abilities granted are a natural consequence of this study. The Scholar multi-class can be followed any non-tribal character. The Scholar class effectively remains within the same class bracket as the character's original class.

|-------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | Gains Read Spirit Runes skill (does not grant the ability to utilise Spirit scrolls)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| 2     | Gains Read Mana Glyphs skill (does not grant the ability to utilise Mana scrolls)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 3     | Gains Identify Rune at will, after 5 seconds study reveals the nature and effect of any Rune of Power or similar Rune, including level of effect. Now counts as a power user for helping in rituals, etc.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 4     | Gains Read Languages skill, as per Scout skill. This does not allow the use of Mana or Spirit scrolls, unless the character is in the Scout bracket already, in which case they gain the skill and advance in level as appropriate to this multi-class (e.g. 3 rd level casting once 6 th level is reached).                                                                                                        |
| 5     | Knowledge of the Arcane – x1/2 levels may receive an answer from the referee to a question regarding the details of a ritual, supernatural marking or event, or similar appropriately supernatural occurrences. This is knowledge remembered as a result of past studies, and sensible assumptions made, in the manner of a Lucky Idea. The answer can be up to 7 useful words in length, and is entirely at the ref's discretion (40, 3) |
| 6     | Gains Recognise Power at will, as per Pathed characters (combined Rec. Mana and Rec. Spirit). These are supernatural abilities and require the Scholar to be able to interact with the powerbase, as the Scholar senses the unnatural. Also gains Linguist skill, as detailed below.                                                                                                                                                      |

Linguist: Familiar with the construction of languages, after at least five minutes exposure to an unknown language the user may communicate in that language in Pidgin speech. This involves hand-gestures, allowing the communication of one-syllable words at 'zombie speed' only - the user also understands words spoken at this speed. Faster speech than this remains unintelligible.

Spiritual Healer

Many goodly priests devote their lives to healing the woes of others, whether tending solely for the wounds of their own religious brothers or going out into the world to heal any who need help. The world being what it is, this role is a difficult one to fill, and priestly healers tend to build some stamina and combat wariness simply through trying to help others involved in combats. This class is available to any priest whose own miracle list includes every Healing-Tree Miracle, and has Major Sphere Healing. Vivomancers may also purchase this class – however if they do so, they gain no additional life points but instead gain 3 mana per level which may only be used to cast beneficial ‘other’ spells or mantic healing. They may instead take 4 manas worth of beneficial innates per level if they wish.

|-------|-------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | 27/9  | +3 spirits for use on healing miracles only these spirits are not cumulative with any other multi-class, OR gains 4 spirits /level of innates chosen at the start of the day from any Healing Tree or Sphere miracle possessed. |
| 2     | 31/11 | +6 spirits total, as above. Healing miracles now ‘hang’ on hands for 30 seconds, in a similar way to causing miracles.                                                                                                                 |
| 3     | 35/12 | +9 spirits total, as above. The Protection from Spirits miracle necessary for Restore Life now costs no spirits - the Protection is only ‘0 th ’ level however, and serves no other purpose.                                |
| 4     | 39/13 | +12 spirits total, as above. No Damage Casting curing miracles.                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 5     | 43/14 | +15 spirits total, as above.                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| 6     | 47/16 | +18 spirits total, as above. When casting a Restore Life the priest does not need to know/use the name of the person being restored to life.                                                                                           |

Post-6th: May buy innates of ‘advanced’ Healing Sphere miracles at 10pts/spirit point, or 7pts/spirit point if either form of Devotion is owned.

Talented Healer – Grants 1 Spirit off (minimum one) all Healing Sphere/Tree miracles. This reduction may be used by spirit warriors and wayfinders when assigning innates using spirits in this class or similar. Cost: 75

Spiritual Maelstrom

A priestly specialist in the arts of Force miracles. In order to take this class the priest must possess All Handbook Force Tree Miracles and Major Sphere Force.

Reveal Spiritual Might – From Gauge Spirit. Costs 3 tblep and reveals a targets level of resistance to force spirits. Cost: 60

Spiritual Mancer

As wizards have learnt to bind spirits to their mana without becoming priests so too have priests begun to develop the art. This allows a priest to cast their spirits mantically, without obtaining mana. Restrictions are still suffered as normal for Pathing, meaning the priest can only cast miracles of their own alignment. For more information see the section on Pathing earlier in the book.

When choosing this route the priest should select the colour of magic bound to their spirits. It must be one that is appropriate to their alignment using the Wizards' Colour alignment restrictions.

| 6     | All Priests spirits may now be cast mantically.                                                                                                    |

Post-6th: Devotee of Power ~ Allows all published advanced miracles owned (of the characters own alignment) to be cast mantically. It costs 250 points.

See the section above on Pathing for more details

Spiritual Summoner

It is not difficult for a priest to summon Undead, indeed many can conjure Ghouls or Wights, but the Summoner has found ways to reach beyond the simple acts of calling the dead and has mastered the art. Must be able to cast all handbook necromancy miracle and be major sphere necromancy.

| LEVEL | ABILITIES                                                                                                                     |
|-------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | Gains 3 spirits (or 4 spirits worth of innates) per level for use on Necromancy tree/sphere miracles.                         |
| 2     | Gains 1 spirit off handbook Necromancy miracles.                                                                              |
| 3     | Undead raised/summoned by the Summoner are now controlled at his control level, rather than 1st.                              |
| 4     | No Damage Casting Necromancy miracles.                                                                                        |
| 5     | Now gains 1 spirit off all Necromancy Sphere/Tree miracles.                                                                   |
| 6     | Focussed Command 1/3 Levels – The control on one published summoned/raised undead will now last until it is destroyed. (40,2) |

Post-6th: May buy innates of advance Necromancy miracles at 10 points per spirit point, or 7 points if either form of Devotion is owned.

Spiritual Thaumaturge

A priest that dedicates themselves to mastery of the spirits finds they can channel them to greater effect than those that rely on faith alone. A deeper understanding of their religion, faith, or just the power itself allows them to grow in strength. Priests that take this class may not leave the priest bracket.

| LEVEL | ABILITIES                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|-------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | Gains 3 points of Casting Stamina per level of this multi-class, cumulative with Casting Stamina acquired elsewhere.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| 2     | Always counts as an 8 th level priest for the ability to cast miracles, even if they are lower (e.g. from casting a restore life)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 3     | +1 grade meditation rate for Spirits (x1->x2->x3, etc.).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 4     | Over casting on spirits no longer slays the Spiritual Thaumaturge outright - instead his maximum tblep is reduced by 3 points for each point of spirits overspent, for the rest of the day only, and cannot in any way be healed or restored except by Supreme Sacrifice until that point. This reduction is not damage, but voluntarily accepted weakening. Reducing tblep to 0 or below still kills the character (even if live to minus is owned). |
| 5     | + 1 level of effect for miracles (stacks with other published increases).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 6     | When buying new miracles (not innates) with points, now pays: 5 points per spirit point for miracles of 10 spirits or less, or 50 + 3 points per spirit point above 10 for higher level miracles. This replaces the tables Buy New Miracle Ability - so acquiring the Commune with the Gods miracle would cost a priest 50 + 3x6 = 68 points, rather than 90.                                                                                         |

Spiritual Warden

A priestly specialist in the arts of Warding miracles. In order to take this class the priest must possess all Handbook Warding Tree Miracles and Major Sphere Warding.

|-------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | Gains +3 spirits /level solely for the use of Warding Tree and Sphere miracles, these spirits are not cumulative with any other multi-class, OR gains 4 spirits /level of innates chosen at the start of the day from any Warding Tree or Sphere miracle possessed.                          |
| 2     | Expertise: Spirit Shield; Spirit Shield [3 spirit handbook miracle] when cast now lasts 60 minutes rather than 15 minutes.                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 3     | -1 Spirit cost casting handbook Warding Tree miracles, non cumulative with any other reduction in spirit cost. Minimum 1 spirit. This reduction may be used by spirit warriors and wayfinders when assigning innates using spirits in this class or similar.                                        |
| 4     | Last Line 1/3 levels a Spirit Shield miracle active on the user becomes the last line of defence for the next 15minutes rather than the first. This may be used within 2secs of suffering from an effect, c.f. War Cry.                                                                             |
| 5     | No damage casting Warding Tree and Sphere miracles.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 6     | 1 st Spirit Shield of the day cast on self lasts until triggered, where upon the duration will start as normal.Level 3 spirit reduction now equally applies to any Warding Tree or Sphere miracle, to a minimum of 1 spirit, non cumulative with any other reduction in spirit cost. |

Post-6th: May buy innates of ‘advanced’ Warding Sphere miracles at 10pts/spirit point, or 7pts/spirit point if either form of Devotion is owned.

Enfolded by the Spirits – Last line (as level 4) may now be used at will. Cost: 100 points

Stalker

This class enhances the natural stealth of the scout, making him an expert in sneaking, stalking and remaining unseen. It may be learnt by Assassins, Pathfinders, Beggars, and Thugs.

| LEVEL | ABILITIES                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|-------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | Gains one additional Stealth innate per level of this class. (40,6)                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 2     | No longer needs to use Stealth innates against a wall, may instead be used against any surface.                                                                                                                                                                     |
| 3     | Gains Greater Stealth 1/day (60,2) which allows the scout to move at slow zombie speed without breaking the effect of the Stealth innate, it is still broken should the scout break any other condition, such as talking, attacking etc.                            |
| 4     | Itchy Feet may perform up to three self only distinct actions whilst within an innate Stealth without breaking it. 1 step would be an action, so would rotating 180 degrees, as would be drawing a sword. Such action should be performed at a max of Zombie speed. |
| 5     | Gains Loiter 1/day that will enhance an innate Stealth such that it is non-durational. This may not be enhanced further by such abilities as Greater Stealth. (70,1)                                                                                                |
| 6     | Gains ‘Hidden’ 1/day whilst under the effects of an innate Stealth gains immunity to all supernatural sights as long as remains stationary. (30,3) This innate must be used as the innate Stealth is used.                                                          |

Post-6th: May buy innates as noted above, plus may acquire ‘Even Greater Stealth’, ‘Stealthy’ and ‘Hidden Assailant’ one table earlier than normal.

Stealth Mage

The Stealth Mage class is the culmination of many Scouts' interest in magic and grants the studying Scout various magical talents, without requiring them to be as dedicated to magic (and thus as limited) as a Wizard.

This class is available to Pathfinders, Assassins, Rogues, Beggars, Spies and Thugs only. It is solely within the scout bracket. Read Glyphs and Languages scout skills are prerequisites for Stealth Mage.

|-------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | Must select a Wizard colour from the list below appropriate to character's alignment, recorded on card when level 1 is bought. May cast Detect Magic at will, as Wizard, also gains the cantrip of own colour (if applicable). If Ivory is selected then Ivory code restrictions are gained.Casting level for reading mana scrolls is increased by half the multi-class level, rounded up - this is also the Stealth Mage's casting level for the innates from this class. |
| 2     | Gains innate 'A' as below x1/2 levels.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |

Innates: On purchasing the relevant level of Stealth Mage, the character must elect to learn one of a choice of possible innates, and this choice must be recorded on his card and signed by a Referee. This innate must be one of the colour selected by the Stealth Mage. The buyer must pick one innate in each column of their chosen colour.

Post-6th: May buy standard innates of glyphs of selected colour at a cost of 10 points per mana point. A Stealth Mage may also buy double innates from multiclass at a cost of 200 points, and triple innates from 2x for 225 points.

Magical Adept – Rather than set innates the Stealth Mage gains 36 mana that may be assigned to standard innates of their chosen colour. Innates may not be higher than their skill level in read scrolls. If Double/Triple innates are owned then the amount of mana is not increased, but the number of chosen innates is (e.g. if they had double innates they could assign their 36 mana to 2 blinks, 4 walk on air (s) and 6 shatter (r). They would then double the innates gained).
Cost: 60 points, table 9.

Survivor

Mercenaries are hardy bunch, hard to kill and even harder to keep dead. However a few out there truly cling to life with every inch of their body and being.

| LEVEL | ABILITIES                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |

| 1     | Gains Live to Minus 3 tblp per level of this class. Stacks with published Live to Minus.                                                                                                                                                         |
| 2     | Hard to kill – 1 st time it is needed each day the Survivor's Live to Minus is doubled.                                                                                                                                               |
| 3     | All Live to Minus owned now applies to locations, increasing the amount of damage they need to be severed. This extra life does not count towards damage suffered from Loc to Zero/Sever type effects.                                           |
| 4     | No longer suffers Bleeding Damage.                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| 5     | Recuperate 1/3 levels – While unconscious due to damage begins to regenerate 1/1 to the worst loc per 30 seconds until consciousness is regained. This stacks with other regen.                                                                  |
| 6     | One Last Effort 1/day – May be used while unconscious due to damage. Regains consciousness and all locations begin to work. This lasts up to 10 seconds. May not engage in combat during this time, and any damage causes it to end immediately. |

Telekinetic

An area of psychic power often under-explored is that of telekinetics. It is possible for those adept in the ways of the mind to move even heavy objects simply through force of will, and there are other more subtle uses to the trained neuronistic. This class represents study in that area, and is available to any neuronistic class and Psi-Drowe. Telekinetic attacks (as level 6 below) harm a target by solidifying the air close to the target and that solid force striking the target; this is similar to an elemental which, summoned by magic, is nonetheless able to inflict physical damage.

| 6     | May now use any of Neuronistic Penetration, Neuronistic Blast, or Neuronistic Flare as a telekinetic power; this means that they affect the physical world only rather than the neuronistic, so inflict physical damage. Innate PAC (only) may be applied to this damage - e.g. a Telekinetic Penetration inflicts 6 tblp, 6 loc to the head - innate PAC 4 means 2 loc head, 2 tblp is taken, while PAC 1 means that 5 loc head and 5 tblp is taken. Telekinetic XXXXX must be declared for the effect to function. Base casting damage for these telekinetics is doubled before applying Neural Foci and other abilities to the final casting life cost. |

Thaumaturge

The Thaumaturge class represents the development of a dedicated wizard's magical powers - a wizard who is a full Thaumaturge can truly claim to be a master of magic. As such, Wizards who purchase this class cannot ever enter the Warrior or Scout brackets.

| 3     | +1 grade meditation rate for mana (x1->x2->x3, etc.).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 4     | Overcasting on mana no longer slays the Thaumaturge outright - instead his maximum tblp is reduced by 3 points for each point of mana overspent, for the rest of the day only, and cannot in any way be healed or restored except by Supreme Sacrifice until that point. This reduction is not damage, but voluntarily accepted weakening. Reducing tblp to 0 or below still kills the character even if Live to Minus is owned. |
| 5     | +2 casting levels (total) for casting spells.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 6     | When buying new glyphs (not innates) with points, now pays: 5 points per mana point for spells of 10 mana or less, or $50 + 3$ points per mana point above 10 for higher level spells. This replaces the tables Buy New Glyph Ability - so acquiring the Incineration glyph would cost a Red Thaumaturge $50 + 3 \times 7 = 71$ points, rather than 95.                                                                          |

Trailbreaker

Scouts and Pathfinders vary individually as much as any other group; although many spend their life in cities, making profit from fast dealing and quick thinking, others choose to head out into the open, exploring lesser-known areas for adventure opportunities.

Trailbreakers learn to be independent, fending for themselves in any situation.

This class is available to any Pathfinder, or any scout class with the Loner tendency, only.

| LEVEL | ABILITIES                                                                       |
|-------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | Gains Survival as Ranger.                                                       |
| 2     | Gains Bind Wounds as Ranger, and Tell Wounds as Scout skill.                    |
| 3     | Gains Tell Direction as Druid.                                                  |
| 4     | Gains Tracking as Ranger.                                                       |
| 5     | Gains 1/3 tblp in Locational Curing, this stacks with tables ability First Aid. |
| 6     | Gains Perception as Scout skill.                                                |

Post-6th: May buy Ranger ability Enhanced Perception for 80 points. May increase monk loc from 1/3 to 2/3 for 75 points on table 9.

Tribal Warlord

As warriors within a tribal structure grow in experience and skill, other members of the tribe naturally look to them for advice and leadership. Eventually, it is common for such a Warrior to be granted the title of Tribal Warlord - this does not mean that the Warrior is the Chieftain, or even the only Warlord; only that the tribe deem the warrior capable of leading the tribe into battle.

This class is available to any tribal warrior except Farfolk.

It may not be purchased until the Totem Stamina ability on the tables is purchased.

|-------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | Ward pact creatures of own race, or non-human side of race (e.g. Ogres may pact Ogres and Half Ogres), at will (as per Ancient Folk ability, level-based at 8 th level).                     |
| 2     | Cold Rage x1/2 levels (50, 3).                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 3     | May be Commanded x1/day as per non-level based VOP of up to 3 words, by each of own tribe's Druid, Shaman and Witchdoctor.                                                                              |
| 4     | May Command x1/3 levels any member of own tribe except Druid, Shaman, Witchdoctor, Chieftain or other Warlord, as above (50, ∞).                                                                        |
| 5     | Now counts as two tribe-members for purposes of Shaman and Witchdoctor calculating power-points. +1 level of resistance to all effects not originating from own Shaman/Witchdoctor or Chieftain. |
| 6     | Warlord's Fury x1/day grants 50% rage, +18/6 life and +1 strength stacking to a max. of +3, lasting 5 minutes (120, 2).                                                                                 |

Post-6th: May buy Warlord's Stamina for 60 points - grants Goblins +4/2 life, Orcs and Barbarians +6/3, and Ogres, Trolls +7/4.

Undead Master

Certain priests of dark powers dedicate their lives to furthering the creation and propagation of undead, learning how best to handle the evil spirits which form these creatures. These priests are known as Undead Masters. This class is available to any evil Priest with Major Sphere Necromancy, or Unholy Champion with an undead-raising based innates list. Half-elves must pay double to purchase this class.

|-------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | May now choose to count as the creation point for Undead of Priest's own creation. +1 level for the purposes of calculating the hits of created undead for each level of this multi-class bought. |
| 2     | May Animate Zombies or Skeletons (as appropriate to the corpse's state) at will by touch, costing 3 tblep per touch for Zombie or 6 tblep for Skeleton.                                           |
| 3     | Control Level 1 Undead at will, full verbal and control name required, for 3 tblep per use.                                                                                                       |
| 4     | Counts as 9th level for purposes of controlling Undead. Control Level 2 Undead at will, as above, costing 6 tblep per use.                                                                        |
| 5     | Control Level 3 Undead at will, as above, for 12 tblep per use.                                                                                                                                   |
| 6     | The Protection from Good Spirits miracle required for undead summoning now costs no spirits - the Protection is only '0th' level however, and serves no other purpose.                            |

Post-6th: May now buy 'advanced' miracle innates from the Necromancy Sphere, at 10pts/spirit, or 7pts/spirit if either Devotion is owned.

Undead Masters may buy Corruption for 60 points, for which Slayer is also a prerequisite. Once a body is 'Slayered', the Undead Master may cause the flesh to instantly rot from its bones, allowing it to be used for the animation of skeletal undead. A corpse so stripped of its flesh must benefit from a physical or magical Regeneration effect before it can be resurrected (as well as the effects of Slayer).

Embody the Dead 1/day – Allows the caster to draw one summoned handbook undead that they control into themselves, effectively they become the undead. While active their stats become as the undead, except they retain Release Own miracle. This lasts 5 minutes, and when it ends the undead fades. If the undead is slain during this time then the caster appears where it died and suffers an un-resistible halt. (Effectively this is a play your own undead ability). Cost: 40* Max: 6

Dead Called – Enhances a Single use of Embody the Dead so that it may be used with any published Undead. Cost: 40* Max: 3

Very Well Equipped

Scouts of all sorts are often the best people to get potion supplies from - if they can't manufacture the necessary type themselves, they often know someone who can. Needless to say those with such contacts are always very well-equipped themselves. There are three branches of this multi-class, one branch each for healing, general potions and poisons. These classes are only available to scout sub-classes and Witches, and the poison branch may not be purchased by Goodly characters.

Further details on potion types and their effects please check the Scout Handbook, At the Sharp End.

Post-6th: May for 10pts per Difficulty Level of a potion type gain a Well Equipped Batch of that type. This cost is halved if the purchaser possesses the recipe already themselves.

Vessel of the Spirits

While all priests are able to use and channel spirits a few learn to draw upon them in a different way. They call the spirits tied closely to their patron so they can draw them back as needed.

| LEVEL | ABILITIES                                                                                                                                       |
|-------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | Gains 2 spirits per level that form a separate pool of spirits. These can be used to cast handbook miracles on the priest's list.               |
| 2     | Spirits from this pool regenerate at 1pt/60 minutes. This is not cumulative with any other power regen or meditation.                           |
| 3     | Power drawn ½ levels – With 2 minutes uninterrupted concentration may transfer up to 6 power from this class to the priests own normal spirits. |
| 4     | Spirits now regenerate at 1/30 minutes.                                                                                                         |
| 5     | Spirits now regenerate at 1/15 minutes.                                                                                                         |
| 6     | Spirits now regenerate at a rate of 1/5 minutes.                                                                                                |

War-Mage

The War-Mage class represents the path some wizards take to develop their skills as a combatant, typically using their powerful magic for direct personal enhancement in offence and defence, making them formidable warriors. This class is available to any (non-High) Wizard. The life-scale below is gained only by wizards with the standard human life-scale; characters with lower life-points (such as elves) gain life by level as would a Pathfinder of their race.

| LEVEL | LIFE  | ABILITIES                                                                                                               |
|-------|-------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | 28/9  | 'O' skill as Warrior. Base Max. AC = 8.                                                                                 |
| 2     | 32/11 | May now carry up to one bastard-sword's worth of non-magical metal.                                                     |
| 3     | 36/12 | 'E' skill as Warrior. Now takes no damage from casting offensive spells which would otherwise cost only 1 tblp to cast. |
| 4     | 40/14 | 'H' skill as Warrior. +1 DAC.                                                                                           |
| 5     | 44/16 | 'B' skill as Warrior. +1 level of casting for offensive spells only.                                                    |
| 6     | 48/17 | Mana Rage x1/day, as Cold Rage but also applies vs. purely magical damage (55,2).                                       |

Post-6th: May now buy as Warrior sub-class, and as Warrior at +25% cost. May not buy extra levels of life based on the life in this class, as this class is in the Warrior bracket.

Metal Tolerance; may carry an additional bastard sword's worth of metal per purchase. 75 points.

War-Dancer

The Elven races are well-known for their natural grace and deftness, and this is exemplified by their elite warriors' training techniques. Many of the best of the warriors of elvenkind choose to follow the path of the War-Dancer - the combat style of a War-Dancer is immediately identifiable to the experienced eye by their flowing motions, attack flowing flawlessly into counter into riposte, into a prodigious leap to the other side of the battlefield. Many elven children grow up dreaming of one day being a War-Dancer. This class is available to any Elf (including Drowe), Faerie, Drave or Alfar warrior.

| LEVEL | LIFE  | ABILITIES                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|-------|-------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | 28/9  | +1 DAC. May no longer use physical armour. May only battleboard up to 3 items, all of which must be physical or magical and of the Elf's own colour. Alfar may use earthpower items if they are capable of doing so, instead of magical.                       |
| 2     | 33/11 | +2 DAC (total). Salmon Leap x1/2 levels.                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 3     | 38/13 | 25% Calm Fury x1/3 levels. As Cold Rage, however War-Dancer need not berserk and may instead act as he will - Fury lasts 5 minutes or until War-Dancer leaves combat, whichever is less (65, 2)                                                                |
| 4     | 43/15 | +3 DAC (total).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 5     | 48/16 | +4 DAC (total).Speed of Thought - during another's Leap, may take 2 paces in addition to or instead of striking a blow - this can include turning round, etc.                                                                                              |
| 6     | 53/18 | Flurry of Blades x1/day - when using at least 2 weapons, may fight in a confusing and unorthodox manner such that any non-War-Dancer cannot apply more than 1 mastery to blows struck against the War-Dancer, lasting 5 minutes. Not a visual attack. (110, 2) |

Post-6th: War-Dancers may buy abilities available to monks of all orders (not 1st-class) – i.e. those monk abilities which monks of any order could buy. A War-Dancer may buy up to 3 abilities as if a 1st Class Monk. However in doing so they lose one item slot for each ability purchased.

Weapons-Priest

Priests dedicated to battle in the name of their beliefs, who spend their time in weapons-training but are not willing to compromise their time spent in worship enough to train fully as Warriors are called Weapons-Priests.

This class is available to Warrior Priests, Battle Priests, or Crusading Priests. If this class is possessed the character may not also enter the Warrior Bracket.

The life scale gained below applies only to priests with base Human life – for priests of other races, they instead gain life by level as would a warrior of their own race.

| LEVEL | LIFE* | ABILITIES                                                                                             |
|-------|-------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | 30/10 | May only ever use Staff or Unarmed as weapons.Gains 'O' and 'B' skill with Staff.                 |
| 2     | 36/12 |                                                                                                       |
| 3     | 42/14 | Base spirits per level of original class change to 3 (i.e. 8th level priest now has base 24 spirits). |
| 4     | 48/16 | Base spirits per level of original class change to 4 (i.e. 8th level priest now has base 32 spirits). |

| 6     | 60/20 | +1 cumulative mastery in Staff.                                                                       |

Post-6th: Weapons-Priest, may buy 'Warrior of the Faith' for 100 points. This allows the Priest to buy Warrior-subclass published abilities from tables three below their own, as long as they are not in any class bracket bar Priest.

Chosen Weapon – May be purchased before buying 1st level. Rather than Staff the Weapons Priest may select a different weapon. It must be specific (e.g. could be Hand Mace or Bastard Mace, but not Maces in general). All abilities in Weapons Priest now reference the chosen weapon rather than Staff. 40 points.

Wound Bringer

As the priests of light have their proponents of the healing powers, so too do those of Evil have their masters at bringing harm and death. The causing spirits are most easily used at close range, and as many a priest has found getting close enough to touch the enemy can be very dangerous. As such, those who use this technique often tend to develop a little more stamina. This class is available to any priest who has Major Sphere Causing and all the causing tree miracles on their miracle list.

| LEVEL | LIFE  | ABILITIES                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|-------|-------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1     | 27/9  | +3 spirits for use on causing miracles only (these spirits do not stack with those granted by any other multi-class), or 4 spirits of causing innates.                                                                                                           |
| 2     | 31/11 | +6 spirits total, as above, or 8 spirits of innates.Causing miracles that would normally 'hang' on hands now hang for twice as long (usually 1 minute or until discharged).                                                                                  |
| 3     | 35/12 | +9 spirits total, as above, or 12 spirits of innates. The Protection from Spirits miracle necessary for Touch of Death now costs no spirits - the Protection is only '0 th ' level however, and serves no other purpose.                              |
| 4     | 39/13 | +12 spirits total, as above, or 16 spirits of innates.No Damage Casting Causing miracles (tree and sphere)                                                                                                                                                   |
| 5     | 43/14 | +15 spirits total, as above, or 20 spirits of innates. No longer needs to shout the verbals to any causing miracle (e.g. TOD), as long as words are spoken clearly and audibly.                                                                                  |
| 6     | 47/16 | +18 spirits total, as above, or 24 spirits of innates. May cast multiple causing miracles to hang simultaneously, each hangs as normal until discharged with a separate and distinct touch. This may be used in combination with the ability from level 2 above. |

Post-6th: May buy 'advanced' Causing Sphere miracle innates for 10pts/spirit, or 7pts/spirit if either form of Devotion is owned.

Harbinger of Harm – Gains 1 spirit off casting Causing Sphere/Tree miracles (minimum 1). Spirit warriors and wayfinders may use this reduction when assigning causing innates from Wound Bringer, or similar classes. Cost 75.

Focussed Causing 1/day a Handbook Causing miracle will change so it now inflicts damage to tblep as normal, but half damage to the touched (or chosen if using Lesser Wings of Darkness), e.g. a Cause Grievous would inflict 36 tblep/18 to the location. In this case SAC applies at 2/1 per point. Immunity to Call Locational Shot applies. 50* Max: 6.

Truly Focussed – From six innates of Focussed Causing may now use it at will. Cost: 50 Table: 10.

Empowered Focussed Causing – Enhanced a single use of Focussed Causing so that it may be used with any published Causing miracle. Cost: 50* Max: 3 Table: 11.

Acknowledgements and Thanks

Thank you to everyone for their help and support over this long project. When it was started we had no idea how long it would take to actually produce and edit all of the books in one go. Hopefully it is something that won't ever be needed again.

I would like to especially thank Martin Witts and Andy Washington for their amazing efforts in making all of the books look good and have indexes that work.
